

Governor's office to be on Coast Dec. 6-9

THE SEA COAST ECHO

In an effort to reach out to constituents who do not live near the Capitol, Governor Barbour is moving his office to the Gulf Coast and South Mississippi December 6 - 9 and plans to tour six counties during his visit.

This is the second relocation of the Governor's Office. Governor Barbour moved his office to North Mississippi in July.

"It is important for me to be available and hear the needs from citizens from all parts of the state," said Governor Barbour.

"This visit is intended to be an effort to bring state government closer to the people on the Gulf Coast and in South Mississippi. Recent events at the Capitol highlight even more the need to make the Coast feel more a part of the process in Jackson."

The Governor's staff and agency heads will fan out across George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Stone counties and be available to answer constituent questions and work on specific case work.

A planning committee, made up of Gulf Coast and South Mississippi residents, has been diligently working on a schedule for the Governor's Office relocation.

They have planned stops at schools and industries, and meeting with numerous groups including: senior citizens, veterans, civic clubs, first responders, economic development leaders, law enforcement, conservationists, educators, and elected officials.

The planning committee includes: Gabe Churchwell, Greene County; Ann Hebert, Jackson County; Al Hopkins, Harrison County; Pat Jones, George County; Faith Koger, Hancock County; Victor Mavar, Harrison County; Howard McKissack, Harrison County; Marsha Peters, George County; Mr. Lynn Rouse, Jackson County; Wayne Tisdale, Harrison County; and Sue Turner, Greene County.

"I applaud the hard work of this planning committee," said Governor Barbour. "They have recommended some excellent events that will ensure we reach out to as many people as we can squeeze into four days."

The Governor's staff will visit George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, and Stone counties, and will be available to answer constituent questions and work on specific cases at the following locations:

Monday, December 6
9am-11:30am, Greene County: ValuLine Building (Old Peavey Building) 705 Main Street, Leakesville, MS

12pm-2:30pm, George County: Justice Court, 355 Cox Street, Lucedale, MS

3pm-5pm, Stone County Courthouse, 231 3rd Street South, Wiggins, MS

Tuesday, December 7
10am-3pm
Singing River Mall (Center Court), 2800 Highway 90, Gautier, MS

Wednesday, December 8
10am-4pm
Edgewater Mall (Dillard's entrance, near Santa Claus), 2600 Beach Boulevard, Biloxi, MS

Thursday, December 9
9am-11am
Hancock County Courthouse, 152 Main Street, Bay Saint Louis, MS

"We talk to constituents over the telephone daily, but this is a great opportunity for us to meet face-to-face with citizens who have questions about state government," said Joey Denison, Director of Constituent Services for the Governor's Office.

"We look forward to serving citizens on the Gulf Coast and in South Mississippi while we are in town."

Don't miss the Second Saturday Artwalk

Bay-Wave Narcotics Task force arrests two for drugs

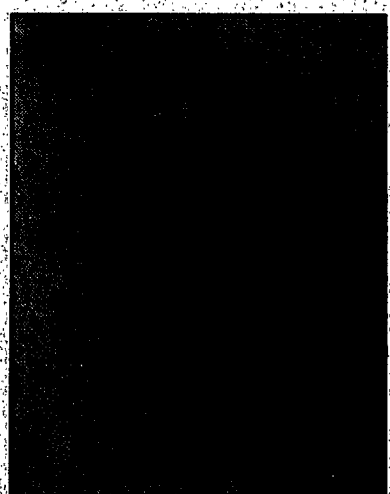

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
 Publisher Emeritus

The Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force arrested a Waveland and a Bay St. Louis resident in unrelated drug activities, according to Waveland Chief Jimmy Varnell and Bay St. Louis Chief Frank McNeil.

"On Wednesday, Dec. 1, around 4:20 p.m., Detective Brent Anderson and Detective Ian Estorff conducted a traffic stop at Washington and St. Francis in Bay St. Louis. The officers had knowledge that the vehicle's driver and only occupant, Rico Laneaux, had no valid driver's license," The chiefs news release said.

Their report continued, "The suspect refused to yield to blue lights and siren and fled from officers at an extreme rate of speed. The chase covered several streets before the suspect collided with another vehicle. Laneaux then exited the vehicle and ran from officers who apprehended him in a wooded area on Sycamore Street. Anderson and Estorff then discovered a plastic bag with cocaine in the suspect's vehicle. Also over a $1,000 in cash was discovered in the suspect's jacket pocket. The U.S. currency is in the process of being seized by the Task Force," the report said.

Laneaux, a resident of Waveland was charged with one count possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute, resisting arrest, reckless driving, failure to yield to blue lights and sirens, no driver's license, no proof of insurance, and disorderly conduct, McNeil and Laneaux said.

They added, "Due to the fact that Laneaux was out on a previous bond for a previous felony narcotics violation, his previous bond was revoked. The suspect also openly admitted to swallowing a large amount of crack cocaine and other narcotics during the pursuit. He had to be first transported to Hancock Medical Center due to an overdose of illegal narcotics. The new charges resulted in a $13,100 bond." Laneaux is lodged in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility with no bond and an initial court appearance is scheduled for January 5. Detective Brent Anderson is handling the investigation, the chiefs' report stated.

In unrelated drug activities, "Agents arrested John (Bo) Garner Green on Nov.

John (Bo) Green

30, when he was in the process of being arrested for other narcotics violation. Agents executed a controlled substance warrant. Green was charged with five counts of sale of a controlled substance, (crack cocaine and marijuana), Varnell and McNeil said.

Police say, "Green, 26, of Bay St. Louis, is currently lodged in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility with no bond. He was also arrested on Nov. 20 for possession of crack cocaine.

His initial court appearance is set for Jan. 5. Detective Jim Martin is handling the investigation."

Varnell and McNeil also added, "Green is facing enhanced penalties due to the fact that he sold illegal drugs within 1500 feet of local churches, parks and playgrounds."

Any tip or complaint concerning illegal narcotics are asked to please call the Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force at 228-467-5683.

Hancock Women's Club to meet Thursday at PCYC

Don't miss the Holiday Tree Gala

The big Library Holiday Tree Gala will take place from 1 to 4 p.m. this afternoon at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, Carroll Avenue.

The Holiday Tree Gala is one of the many special programs presented each year by our library system.

Some 65 decorated Christmas trees from local businesses and schools will be on display.

Competition is keen as special judges will choose winners in 15 categories, including Best in Show, Best New Entrant, Most Creative Tree and the Designer Award.

Not only will the Christmas trees be on display for the general public, there will be live entertainment, too.

The Voices of Deliverance Choir from the Power House of Deliverance Church in Bay St. Louis will perform at 2 p.m. in the main part of the library.

The Holmes Chapel United Methodist Church of Pearlinton will sing at 3 p.m.

If you haven't visited our main library during the Christmas Tree Gala, you do not know what a great event you are missing.

We hope to see you there this afternoon.

A little bit to the center of the county on Tuesday, December 7, at 6 p.m. at the Kiln Library, the third annual Community Christmas Tree Lighting will take place.

This is always a great Hancock County Library event too.

Ornaments for the children's tree at the Kiln Library are put together by the youngsters. Packets of ornaments are acquired from the library, and families put them together.

The big Kiln event is hosted by the Hancock County Library System Board of Trustees, the Library Foundation of Hancock County and the Kiln Advisory Board.

A big hit at this event always is the arrival of Santa, as the youngsters are given an opportunity to make their requests to the Jolly Old Man from the North Pole. Since snow is not always available in the Kiln, Santa hitches a ride on a bright red Kiln Fire Department Truck.

Tuesday marks the 63rd anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Many thought that World War II, since it was the war of all wars in modern history, would be the last war. Yet, we have had many wars since that time.

I still think about the

This sacred season, remember our troops

I urge everyone to remember our troops serving overseas during this holiday season, especially the many Mississippians who are deployed away from home and the 18 Mississippi families who have lost loved ones as a direct result of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Our prayers must start with

From the Senate

By U.S. Sen. Trent Lott

the remembrance of those whose holidays will be tempered either by separation or bereavement. Some Mississippians have been in Iraq for almost a year or more. That's a long time to be away from family, friends and familiar surroundings. Yet, these courageous men and women do so without hesitation or complaint.

In my years as your Senator, and as a citizen from a shipyard town that has made strong national defense a priority, I've interacted with many servicemen and servicewomen since our all-volunteer force was introduced 30 years ago. I've said many times and I fervently believe that America's armed forces today are among our best ever.

The highly motivated young people who comprise the backbone of our military force truly are taking their place as one of America's greatest generations. They've proven themselves with masterful performances in the War on Terror, liberating 50 million people abroad and protecting almost 300 million Americans here at home.

While the holidays are primarily a religious celebration, we must reflect on

Time to 'Upgrade' State's Education

BY GOVERNOR HALEY BARBOUR

For too long Mississippi has focused only on education funding and not education fundamentals. It is time to upgrade Mississippi's approach to educating our children.

The following is my "Upgrade" education reform proposals for the 2005 Legislative Session.

I appreciate your consideration, and welcome your comments on even more ways we can improve our schools' at www.governor-barbour.com/education.

Upgrade: Put Teaching First

Implement the final installment of the teacher pay raise package -- an 8% across-the-board raise for our teachers during the 2005-2006 school year.

Include financial rewards in future pay raises for all faculty and administrators when their school demonstrates a high rate of gain for student performance.

Recruit teachers in hard-to-staff subjects like math and science by authorizing the use of state dollars for additional pay.

Reform the state retirement system to encourage Mississippi's teachers to re-enter the public school classroom in critical shortage areas.

Upgrade: Student

Discipline

Promote more mentoring to new teachers on discipline issues. Set a goal of 1000 new mentors for Mississippi's schools, with an extra focus on middle schools, where discipline problems are the worst.

Create a standing "Student Disciplinary Review Board" in each school comprised of faculty which will review discipline problems when a principal decides to send a disruptive student back to the classroom over a teacher's objections.

Increase the enforceability of holding a parent accountable in the discipline process. If a parent refuses to participate in a timely manner in parent-teacher conferences due to their child's discipline problem a misdemeanor, they should be punished by increased fines, community service, or mandated attendance with their child in the classroom (current law is rarely enforced due to a lack of a time element).

Upgrade: Liberate Successful Schools

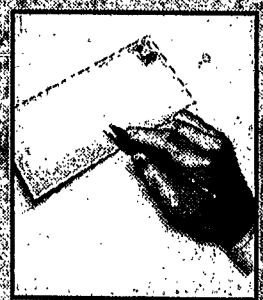

Exempt Mississippi's highest performing schools, designated as Level 4 and 5, from all the process standards required by the State Department of Education's policy manual, as long as

A lot of people made ArtsAlive! a success

Letter to the Editor

The ARTS, Hancock County would like to express our appreciation to the Sea Coast Echo, the Hancock County Bureau of Tourism and Development, and the City of Bay St. Louis for their outstanding support of the ArtsAlive! Studio Tour held the weekend of Nov. 20 and 21. We had a total of 54 artists participating at 24 locations throughout Hancock County. For a first time event, we had a wonderful turnout. While other art communities have a history of fairs or festivals, the ArtsAlive! Studio Tour is unique in that it gives the public a rare opportunity to visit art studios and observe the creative process. Hundreds of people visited the studios and bought art for themselves or for holiday presents. Many who were intrigued by what they observed, signed up for art classes.

We recognize that the special ArtsAlive! supplement printed by the Sea Coast was largely responsible for the turnout. The 16 page publication served as a artist/studio directory featuring information on each artist plus much more. The supplement can also serve as a resource for art activities throughout the year. What a wonderful gift to The Arts and the community at large!

We will hold the ArtsAlive! Studio Tour again next year and plans are already being made for it to be even more successful. Thanks again to everyone who made it possible this year.

Barbour -- UpGrade Education

they maintain their high level of achievement.

Grant "Home Rule" to high-performing school districts (combined average ranking of all schools of at least Level 4), allowing these districts to be legally able to pursue their own education interests, unless the law expressly prohibits it.

Allow the State Department of Education to focus its resources and assistance on fewer schools, the ones which need the most help: Level 1, 2 and 3 schools in Mississippi.

Expand Mississippi's charter school law, which has been labeled the most restrictive in the nation, so local communities will be free to develop schools of learning tailored to their own needs.

Reduce needless teacher paperwork and bureaucracy by creating a task force of superintendents, principals, and teachers to review the entire Title 37 (public education section) of the Mississippi Code and the State Department of Education's operating procedures to identify all the rules and requirements which are not related to testing and fiscal accountability.

UpGrade: Efficient Use of Resources

Provide more transparency in education budgeting by itemizing all of the variables and add-ons of the MAEP district allocation and making it available to the public.

Give local school districts the express legal authority and encouragement to privatize local services to save funds.

UpGrade: Redesign High School

Establish the goal of making it possible for every student who desires to do so to earn a semester's worth of college credit in high school, saving Mississippi's parents thousands of dollars in tuition, and increasing the academic rigor of the senior year for Mississippi students.

Expand the impact of "Dual Enrollment" for high school students. Allow them to take classes at a community college or university while maintaining a high school curriculum and provide that all coursework be dual credit -- usable for both high school Carnegie units and post-secondary degree credit.

Insist that by the 2007-2008 school year, all public school 10th graders have free access to taking the Pre-Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) -- a nationally-recognized test used to measure students' ability to succeed in Advanced Placement classes).

Insist that Mississippi take advantage of federal funding to train

Advance Placement teachers and utilize online AP instruction so that, by the 2007-2008 school year, all districts can offer their students Advanced Placement tests in core subject areas (at no cost to disadvantaged students).

Encourage businesses in Mississippi to offer high school students at least a semester scholarship for industry specific training at community colleges during the fall or summer after their graduation in return for their promise (compact) to stay in school.

UpGrade: Early Childhood Development

Require that state entities that deal with early childhood education be coordinated through the Advisory Board of the existing Interagency Council, which will be led by the Office of Children and Youth Services within the Department of Human Services.

Move child care centers to offer more learning opportunities by requiring an educational component if a center is to receive the highest reimbursement in state funding through the Department of Human Services for Child Care Certificates.

Develop a quality rating scale for childcare centers, based on an easy-to-understand star system, which would be implemented immediately and posted for parents.

Give the Department of Human Services the responsibility for child care licensing to facilitate the implementation and monitoring of the reformed tiered reimbursement and quality rating system.

Lott -- support the troops

our freedom, too. The men and women in uniform absent from us this season make it possible for us to sit down with our families and reaffirm our values and our hope for the future.

The simple pleasures of cooking a turkey, singing Christmas carols, shopping, decorating, or going to the church Christmas cantata are out of the question in far too many nations which treat each of their citizens' activities with sinister suspicion.

We cannot forget the little things we take for granted in America that remain the disdain of dictators and terrorists throughout the world.

As a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee with regular access to information regarding terrorist threats, I can tell you that our fighting troops are real life heroes and the most effective shield we have against some very dangerous enemies.

That shield of troops comes from among our own communities and neighborhoods.

Units from Mississippi's National Guard which will be away this holiday season include: the 112th Military Police Battalion based in Canton; the 185th Aviation Group of Jackson; Company G 185th Aviation Group, Meridian; the 298th Corps Support Battalion, Philadelphia; the 114th Army Liaison Team, Greenville; the 1st Cavalry Division Rear Operations Center, Tupelo; the 298th Air Support Operations Squadron, Meridian; the 248th Air Traffic Control Squadron from Meridian and the 172nd Airlift Wing of Jackson. In addition to these forces, Meridian's 186th Air Refueling Wing makes regular commutes across the globe in support of our military's mission.

Communities which have lost either National Guard personnel or full-time military troops include Saucier, Jackson, Natchez, Utica, Booneville, Crystal Springs, Kokomo, Pricedale, Shubuta, Tutwiler, Picayune, Meridian, Columbus, Philadelphia, Hattiesburg, Southaven, Clinton and my own hometown of Pascagoula.

These are cities and small communities alike from every part of our state. Yet as different as these places may be, they share the same sense of emptiness this holiday season. We all do. Mississippi remains a close, tight-knit community, and chances are, you know one or more people who are either serving overseas or whose loved ones may have been among those who have made the ultimate sacrifice.

Let us celebrate life and joy and the hope for peace on earth this holiday season, as we should. But first, let's take a moment to remember those who have paid the ultimate price for the peace we enjoy in America and for which our neighbors still fight even during this most sacred season. Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (Attn: Press Office)

honor and privilege I had in doing interviews with William Sanders and Kenneth McKenna, former residents.

McKenna was the Chief Quartermaster on the Battleship Arizona when it was sunk and he ended up in the drink and Sanders' was a seaplane tender on the U.S.S. Curtis and as a bomb struck his ship he was knocked down on the deck. The Curtis was moored 100 yards from the Ford Island runway. His wife, Betty Sanders, a military dependent was home sleeping at Waikiki Beach when she was awakened by a noise.

The lives of millions of Americans was changed by the Pearl Harbor bombing 63 years ago.

FRIENDS to sponsor 'Home for the Holidays' in Bay St. Louis

Friends of the Animal Shelter in Hancock County is sponsoring two holiday events on Saturday, Dec. 11, you won't want to miss. This date is important for several reasons. First because you get to tour seven beautiful homes in Bay St. Louis, decorated for the holidays. Some are old historic renovations and some are new construction.

Second, if you're looking for the perfect Christmas gift, consider giving the gift of love by adopting a shelter pet or have your pets and/or child's photo taken with Santa. Finally, proceeds from these two events go to continue FRIENDS work to improve the lives of the animals of Hancock County.

The goal of the organization is to eliminate euthanasia as a means of controlling the pet over-population through positive prevention programs.

FRIENDS offers many programs such as, our free spay & neuter certificates, grass roots educational program and support of the

Waveland Animal Shelter

St. Thomas Episcopal Women present 'Christmas Garland'

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The women of St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Diamondhead invite Gulf Coast residents to attend "A Christmas Garland," performed by three talented women from New Orleans and Mandeville. The program is an intertwining of words and music about the birth of Christ as seen through the eyes of three women in The Bible. It will take place on Monday, Dec. 6 at 10:30 a.m. at St. Thomas, 5303 Diamondhead Circle, Diamondhead. Genevieve Munson Trimble is the narrator of the program. It is one of several programs she has created for various organizations throughout the New Orleans area and the Gulf South. Gen is a published writer and a dedicated civic worker.

She chaired the opening of Lord and Taylor at the New Orleans Center with a benefit for New Orleans City Park's Botanical Gardens. For her work at City Park and restoration of the gardens at Afton Villa, a home she owns in St. Francisville, La., Gen received the Garden Club of America Medal of Merit.

The "Christmas Garland" vocalist is Susan Dorris Carswell, a well-known sacred soloist, who attended the Juilliard School of Music in New York where she was a violin major. She serves as soloist at churches throughout the New Orleans and Mandeville/Covington areas and with the St. Louis Cathedral choir, sang for the Pope in Rome.

Susan will be accompanied by Nell Winston Saussy. Nell has performed with New Orleans Children's Theater and the Taradiddle Players and in Loyola and Tulane University productions and at numerous benefit events. She sings regularly with New Orleans Trinity Episcopal Church quartet and served as pianist and vocalist with the musical group Regeneration.

There is no charge for the program, which lasts about 40 minutes.

Community events this week

Coast Chorale performs Thursday in Gulfport

The Coast Chorale, a 40-voice Mississippi community chorus, will be presenting Camille Saint-Saens' Christmas Oratorio with orchestra, along with traditional carols of the season on Thursday, Dec. 9, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, 12290 DePew Road, Gulfport, which is approximately 2 miles north of I-10 and 3 blocks east of Hwy. 49. The second will be Sunday, Dec. 12 at Trinity Episcopal Church, 125 Church Ave., just north of Hwy. 90, Pass Christian.

Both programs begin at 7 p.m. and admission is free.

Human Resources wants your help

Hancock County Human Resources Agency has immediate openings at their Youth Development Aftercare and Summer Care Program for income eligible working parent families. The program operates at Second Street Elementary and serves school children 5-13 years of age. Louisiana governor seeking support in effort to keep more oil and gas money

BY MELINDA DESLATE
Associated Press BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) Hoping to unify coastal oil-producing states, Gov. Kathleen Blanco has sent letters to four governors asking for their commitment to seek more federal oil and gas money from offshore drilling, dollars Blanco hopes can help repair Louisiana's battered coastline.

Blanco told the governors of Mississippi, Alabama, Texas and Alaska that the coastal states deserve to keep more of the royalties generated by that drilling, and she asked them to join her in a request to talk with leaders of key congressional committees in February while the governors are in Washington for a national meeting, Blanco said she also hoped to talk with President Bush about the matter.

Deep canals that were carved into Louisiana's marshes and dredging associated with the oil and gas industry have been at least partially blamed for some of Louisiana's erosion problems. The state's coast has lost about 1,900 square miles since 1932, and the wetlands now are disappearing at the rate of 24 square miles a year.

"Every coastal state that serves our country by hosting offshore oil and gas production must deal with the impacts of that activity, and the impacts and needs are as unique as their individual coastlines. By banding together, we can make a powerful case to the Congress that it is time for the nation to compensate us for the costs of oil and gas exploration off our shores," Blanco said in the letter, sent to the governors Monday.

Louisiana has been rejected in repeated attempts to get federal dollars for a massive coastal restoration plan estimated to cost $14 billion over 30 years, and it's unlikely federal officials will want to relinquish some of the annual income from oil and gas production.

State officials are hoping the neighboring states and Alaska, with their powerful politicians and connections to President Bush, will jointly propose legislation in Congress that would give each state more royalties from oil and natural gas drilling off their coasts.

In her letter, Blanco said offshore oil and gas production in the Gulf of Mexico is the federal government's second largest source of revenue, providing billions of dollars in income. She said more than $7.5 billion in offshore revenue poured into the federal treasury in 2002.

Coastal states receive only a fraction of the billions the federal government gets from the offshore leases and activities each year while interior states get half of the royalties from drilling on their land, according to the Louisiana governor.

Blanco said she believes the coastal states should get 10 percent of the offshore revenue as a "bare minimum" for the states' environmental and infrastructure costs.

Spokesmen for Texas Gov. Rick Perry and Alabama Gov. Bob Riley said they hadn't yet received the letters and declined to comment until then. A call to a spokeswoman for Alaska Gov. Frank Murkowski wasn't immediately returned.

Pete Smith, press secretary for Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour, said the governor still was reviewing the letter and has previously talked to members of the Mississippi congressional delegation about the topic, though Smith refused to say what Barbour's position has been in those discussions. "I know that Gov. Barbour is interested in this issue," Smith said.

Test firing

Paraffin-fueled rocket motor during test firing at Stennis Space Center.

Paraffin-fuel rocket motor tested at Stennis Space Center

NASA Stennis Space Center (SSC) recently tested a rocket motor powered by fuel most people have in their homes: paraffin, the waxy material used in common candles.

In the past, paraffin was thought to be too weak and unstable to use as rocket fuel, but a research team at Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., found it to be twice as strong as conventional solid propellants. It also burns at a higher combustion rate, is safer, cheaper and very friendly to the environment, producing water vapor and carbon dioxide.

Lockheed Martin - Michoud Operations designed and fabricated the hybrid motor in collaboration with Space Propulsion Group Inc., which was formed by the Stanford team. The motor tested at SSC fired for the full planned duration and produced more than 5,000 pounds of thrust.

The testing demonstrated that paraffin has a much higher regression rate when compared with HTPB (hydroxyl terminated polybutadiene). If the paraffin technology can be scaled up to even larger sizes this higher regression rate has the potential for improved hybrid propulsion performance. We will be looking at paraffin fueled hybrids for future applications," said Tim Knowles, Lockheed Martin's principal investigator for hybrid rocket motors.

The paraffin motor test at SSC was the last of four tests conducted as part of the Hybrid Technology Test Project. The other three tests used HTPB.

Hybrid motors combine solid and liquid materials. An oxidizer such as oxygen is generally used with all rocket fuels to aid burning. Conventional rocket fuels are either solids, like what is used in the Space Shuttle boosters, or liquids, like what is used in the Space Shuttle Main Engine.

Hybrid motors are not new - they have been in development for about 50 years - but have not produced enough thrust to power heavy space launch vehicles. Paraffin shows promise because tests at Stanford and at NASA Ames Research Center have shown it burns at a rate three times greater than other hybrid fuels.

In hybrid motors, liquid oxygen is gasified before injection into the motor's combustion chamber containing the solid fuel. When the oxygen ignites, it flows over the fuel surface to produce sustained combustion.

The Stanford researchers found that paraffin burns faster because as the oxygen gas blows across the melted surface, waves form and are pulled off as a spray of droplets. That spray burns very rapidly, increasing the fuel's combustion rate.

A rocket motor fueled by paraffin, the waxy material used in common candles, test fires for the full planned duration during a recent test at NASA Stennis Space Center (SSC) in Hancock County, Miss. The motor produced more than 5,000 pounds of thrust. SSC is where all Space Shuttle Main Engines are tested and proven flight-worthy.

Don't just Dream about retirement. Plan For It.

PRCC Wildcats basketball teams split with Holmes

THE SEA COAST ECHO

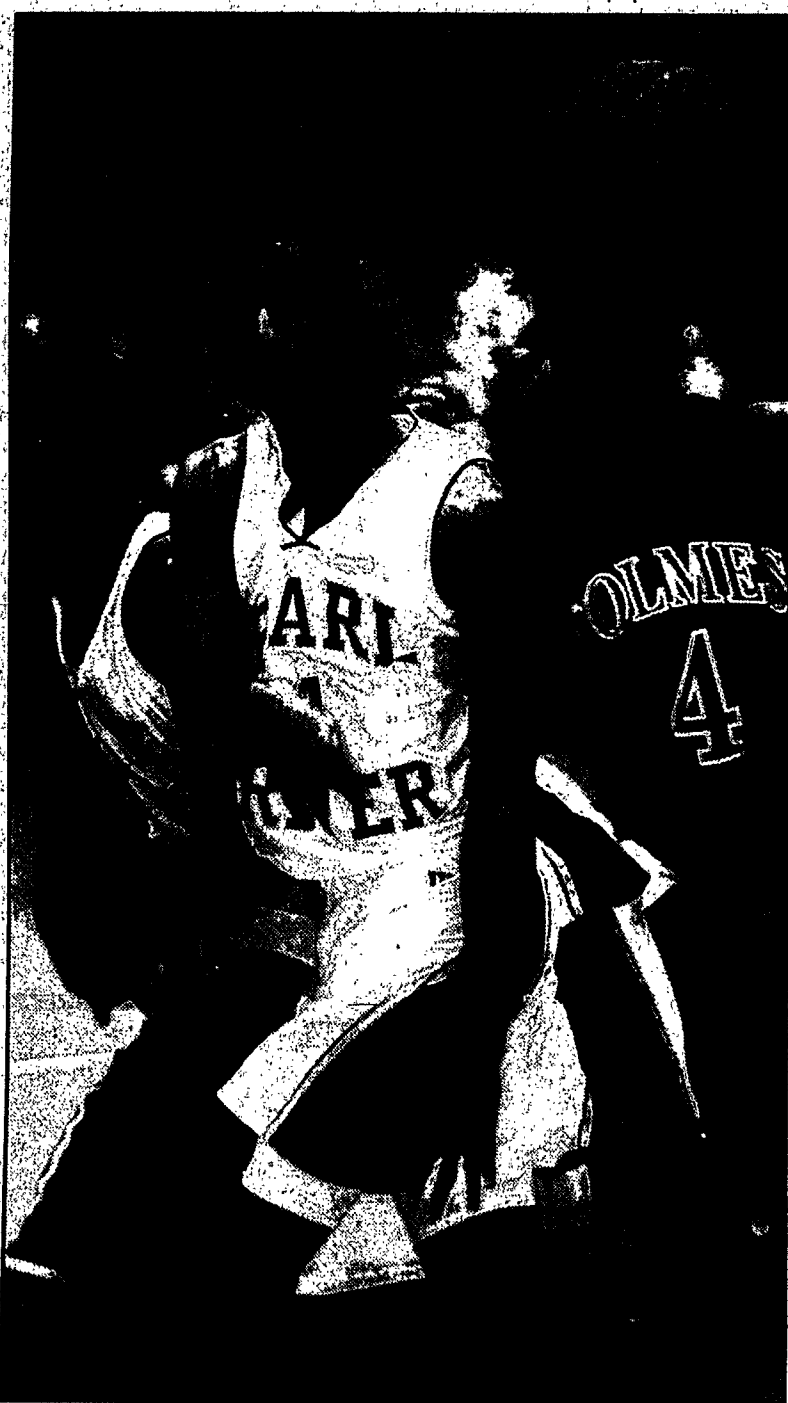

Pearl River split with Holmes in women's and men's MACJC non-division basketball action Thursday with the Lady Wildcats falling 91-84, while the defending state champ Wildcats bombed the Bulldogs 71-57.

Holmes swept PRCC Tuesday in Goodman with its men taking an 84-77 victory and its women's team pulling out a 95-94 overtime victory. The Lady Wildcats dropped to 6-3 overall, while Holmes' women improved to 8-2. Pearl River's men improved to 5-3, while the Bulldogs dropped to 7-2.

In the women's game, PRCC jumped out to a commanding 20-9 lead when Yolanda Hartfield of Hattiesburg High bucketed a trey at the 13:13 mark of the first half, but the Lady Bulldogs bounced back with 20-9 run to tie it up at 29-29 when Michelle Spire made good on a one-and-one with six minutes left.

Tonisha Agee followed with two of her 17 points on the night to give Lady Bulldogs the lead, then Pearl River's Vontrese Smith of Millen, Ga., answered with a bucket to deadlock things again before Holmes took the lead for good off a pair of free throws by Spire.

The Lady Bulldogs built their first-half lead to eight, 42-34, when Shalonda Williams stole the ball and raced downcourt for a basket, but PRCC answered with back-to-back buckets by Vontrese Smith and Cicely Tatum of Poplarville.

Pearl River point Marquez Singleton (4) dishes off one of his four assists in the defending state champ Wildcats' 71-57 victory over Holmes Thursday in Poplarville. Singleton, a freshman from Bay High, scored 11 points and went six-for-six at the foul line against the Bulldogs.

High to cap a 10-4 run to cut intermission. Holmes' lead to 46-44 at the steal and a basket.

Lamitra Daggs of New Orleans with 16:40 remaining pulled the Lady Wildcats to within one point, 55-54, of the Lady Bulldogs, but the visitors answered with 17-4 scoring surge to build their largest lead of the night at 72-58 off a Spire bucket with 12:10 left.

The Lady Wildcats battled back with a 12-1 run to again pull to within one point with 6:55 left and did it again at the four-minute mark off a trey by Nikki Smith of Poplarville High. Nikki Smith sank a pair of foul shots to make it 84-82 Holmes with 2:45 left, but that was as close as the Lady Wildcats would come to victory.

Nikki Smith and Tatum, both sophomores, paced the Lady Wildcats with team-high 15-point totals. Nikki Smith sported an eight-for-eight showing at the foul line, while Tatum was five-of-six at the charity stripe. Vontrese Smith added 11 points and hauled in a game and career-high 18 rebounds, while Carmen Labat of Bay High also scored 11 and went six-for-six at the free-throw line. Daggs (six rebounds, seven assists) and Ashley Jones of Florence scored 10 each, while Hartfield added nine (four-for-four free throws) and Brittany Blackston of Hattiesburg High scored three.

In the men's game, Pearl River never trailed in the game and built a 14-4 lead to open the game, but Holmes fought back with a 15-4 run to pull to cut the Wildcats' lead to 19-18 with 8:11 left before PRCC closed out the half with a 17-6 scoring surge to lead 35-25 at the intermission.

Holmes pulled to within six, 37-31, early in the second half, but that was as close as the Bulldogs could get. Pearl River built its lead to 67-52 in the final two minutes when Alvin Robinson of Hattiesburg High bucketed two of his team-high 18 points.

Robinson had one three-pointer and hauled in 12 boards while blocking agame-high four shots. Jeremy Holder of Lumberton added 16 (two treys) and grabbed a game-high 15 rebounds, while Marquez Singleton of Bay High scored 11 (one trey, four assists), Terry Wade of Oak Grove nine (one trey), Jason Simmons of Hattiesburg High seven, Channing Cohen of Oak Grove and Thomas Fraise of New Orleans, four each; and Brandon Mitchell of Forrest County AHS two.

Area teams rack up wins on the hardwood

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The area teams hit the hardwood this week after a brief Thanksgiving break. It appears that the extra food hasn't slowed them down as several area teams tallied wins during the week.

On Tuesday, November 30, the Pass Christian Pirates disposed of the Long Beach Bearcats 66-53 after fighting back from an eight-point deficit at the break.

Brandon Miller led the Pirates with his double-double of 26 points and 14 boards. Armad Bailey and Reggie McIntosh each added 12 points and the Pirates improved to 6-2 on the season.

The Bay High Lady Tigers kept their unblemished record at 9-0 with an 85-30 win over the Lady Panthers of Pascagoula. Kendra Reed scored 20 points while Destiny Porter scored 18 and Tamara Reed added 15.

St. Stanislaus upped their record to 6-2 with a 76-29 win over the St. John Eagles. Brandon Butler paced the Rocks with 15 points followed by Ludovic Dovonu with 13 points.

The Hancock Hawks were upended by the Stone County Tomcats. Scoring details were not available.

On Thursday, December 2, the Hancock Lady Hawks improved to 9-3 on the season with their 57-27 win Bishop Sullivan in the Hancock Tournament.

Erica Moran scored a double-double with 21 points and 11 boards to lead the Lady Hawks. Ashley Boehnel added 12 points in the win.

In high school soccer action on Tuesday, November 30, the Hancock Hawks swept a pair of games against the Pirates of Pass Christian.

In the girls contest, Colleen Botts and Tiffany Marlow each scored in the game to lead Hancock (2-5) to the win. On the boys side, Thomas Donaldson scored twice while Josh Barfield, Dustin Sackett and Ashton Levens all scored once. Hancock improved to 2-4-1.

The OLA junior high soccer team (2-0) defeated Ocean Springs on December 1st. Nikki Wild scored twice and Jennifer Loiacano added one assist. Mischa Tice and Helen Burnett combined for the shutout.

The junior varsity Crescents (5-0) remained undefeated with a 7-0 win over Sacred Heart on December 2nd. Annie Giardino and Jaime Reich each scored twice for OLA. Cassy Schaffer, Brett Walsh and Karli Renz all scored once.

Rebecca Werner and Cassy Schaffer each tallied an assist. Amelia Simpson posted the shutout in goal.

Boley bags Conerly Trophy

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

Michael Boley, a senior linebacker for the University of Southern Mississippi, claimed the 2004 Cellular South Conerly Trophy in Jackson on Wednesday, December 1 at the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame and Museum. Boley became the second USM player to receive the honor after Rod Davis grabbed the trophy in 2002. Boley is also just the second defensive player to win the award.

Boley, a Athens, Alabama, native leads USM with 111 tackles including a career high 20 tackles in the season opener at Nebraska.

the project, a 14-story, multi-tower hotel and 1,200 car, ten story parking garage at the foot of Poinsett Ave., with a beach front casino across the street. Commissioner Lynn Bell seconded the motion when board attorney John Scafide advised the motion would die without a second.

Commissioners Mark Cumella and Ray Ladner voted against the proposal bringing the vote to a tie with the absence of Commissioner Alan Dedeaux. Scafide advised that the motion did not pass and did not fail.

Board president Lynn Bell called for a re-vote on the issue, she said, when a quorum (at least three members), or an odd number of Commissioners can be present to vote to assure the tie is broken. Tentative date for the re-vote is set for December 16, when hopefully all five members will be present, allowing Dedeaux to break the tie.

Bell questioned project owners Kirk Ladner and Russell Elliot about their plans to make the ten story concrete wall, that will be created by the parking garage, more attractive to the residents who live in the quiet residential neighborhood directly behind the site.

The two said they had made no definite plans. Bell suggested hiring a muralist to paint the wall. Ladner said several residents had expressed an interest in selling their property should the project be approved.

The casino structure will include a concrete breakwater that will serve as an addition to the Clermont Harbor Pier, said Ladner. An Indian Mound, located at the site will not be disturbed by construction, he said.

Another casino project, this one proposed by a different set of investors at nearby Bayou Caddy, recently received approval by the state gaming commission.

The Silver Slipper will be built on 30 acres at the Bayou Caddy site in unincorporated Hancock County near Lakeshore, according to the Silver Slipper Casino Venture LLC attorney Scott Address.

There will be 19 table games and 750 slot machines, Address said recently. He said there also will be a 45,000-square-foot, land-based facility with entertainment, buffet restaurants, private dining and administrative offices.

The $40 million project should take about 11 months to complete and Address said construction crews hope to break ground within a month.

Annexation

Counsel for Bay St. Louis continued to stress the impracticality of dividing the Hwy. 603 business corridor, leaving, attorney Jerry Mills said, nowhere for the city of Bay St. Louis to grow.

But Gouras said maps prepared by Bay annexation consultants Bridge and Slaughter indicate that the city was looking at Diamondhead and other areas to the north, including Stennis International Airport, for future annexations. Gouras said Bay attorneys had indicated at meetings that the Diamondhead area was slated for a 2010 annexation bid.

Gouras drew a line around the current area proposed for annexation by Bay St. Louis, up across I-10 to the Diamondhead area in an attempt to show a logical connection between the two. Such an annexation would give Bay St. Louis a well-developed interstate interchange at Diamondhead, Gouras said, and access to a residential community with high income levels and property values.

"It would make a wonderful community," Gouras said. "Waveland's annexation requests give both cities an opportunity to grow into developing areas."

Should the annexation be approved, Gouras said, some of the additions included in Waveland's plans for expansion are: A third fire station, fire truck, and six additional firefighters within three years in the Hwy. 603 area; three additional patrolmen and three new cars in years one and two; an additional clerk in city hall and public works; additional laborers and equipment operators for the street department; additional street maintenance equipment; 150 additional street lights in the first two years; and two new playgrounds in years two and three.

Figures prepared by certified public accountant Christy Smilek indicate Waveland's bonding capacity for 2005 at $6 million, and up to $13.6 million for 2009, Gouras said, which would give the city plenty of financial leverage for needed improvements. Smilek said figures were based on assessed valuation and indicated bonding capacity only, not to total borrowing capacity.

Cody's bond was set at $500, Barnett stated.

Cody was placed on suspension with pay by the Department of Corrections, as they investigate the matter, Barnett said.

A stroll down memory lane

Above, Old friends Curtis Asher, Bill Bourgeois, Albert "Albie" Asher and Jimmie Ladner Sr. take a walk down memory lane at Bayou La Croix. Below, A new cement bridge has replaced the old wooden one where the old Bayou La Croix community used to be. Friends Curtis Asher and Jimmie Ladner Sr. recall fox hunting and the legend of a headless songstress who lived at the bridge.

Maybe if the federal government and Stennis Space Center hadn't come to Hancock County the beautiful and wild area called the "Buffer Zone" would be full of fast food restaurants and shopping malls, some say. So maybe in a way the Space Center is responsible for preserving the remoteness of the area, others say. But most of the people who lived among the large oaks, pines and pretty berry trees, say the area would have remained the same anyway, rural, filled with communities of close knit families and friends who were happy with just the way things were.

Most of the area didn't even begin to get the modern conveniences, telephone, electricity, and indoor plumbing until right around the time when folks found they would have to move, leave their homes, and make way for the space age. Most didn't own a television or even have time to watch one. They got most of the news by word of mouth. That probably accounts for the reason that no one knew till it was too late that their lives were about to change, dramatically and forever.

"Oh about a half a mile off the road over there was Dillville," said Curtis Asher, 93, pointing over to the right as we made our way out Bayou La Croix Rd. with his son Albert "Albie" Asher to meet some friends at the Bayou La Croix cemetery. (Albie thought that the drive would prompt Mr. Curtis' memory and he was right.) "Blacks, whites and Indians all lived there. And there was a turpentine still there near to Toot Ladner's place."

Bobby Moran ran it and employed about 100 people. Dave Jewell worked there. He was an Indian. The workers would sing all day while they chipped the trees to get the turpentine. You could hear them singing from a quarter of a mile away. They would cut a gash in the bark and catch the turpentine in metal or ceramic cups. They worked from daylight to dark."

Asher, though he didn't live in Bayou La Croix proper, lived nearby on what is now Hwy 90, but back then the main road was still Old Spanish Trail, he said. Bayou La Croix, with the turpentine still and the Haas saw mill was a center for employment.

Asher is the grandson of John Asher and Victoria Zengarling Asher; and the son of John Waveland and later owned a store that Curtis' sister Rosie ran for her father while he worked during the day. Firewood was traded for necessities such as coffee, matches and vinegar, and for luxuries such as fruit or rock candy or raisins.

Logs from were sent down Bayou, Phillips to Bayou La Croix to the Jourdan, coordinated with the timing of the tides, said Mr. Curtis. In 1923 his brother Albert Eugene drowned there in the bayou.

"Out at the cemetery we met up with friends Jimmie Ladner Sr., Myrna Ladner Bourgeois, and her husband Bill. The morning chill was wearing off and it was shaping up to be a beautiful day."

"Would you want to take a walk down to the bridge and look at the bayou," said Miss Myrna. "It's not very far."

On the way Miss Myrna pointed out the sites that various friends and relatives had called home. Her mother used to make May Hall Berry Jelly from the berries that grew on trees in the low lands, she said, and when she died the family found a five-gallon bucket of May Hall Berry juice in the freezer waiting to become jelly.

The under brush was kept clear by the cattle grazing free in the area and you could walk easily through the trees back then, she said. Teachers at the school lived with the families in the community and one lived for a while with Myrna and her family.

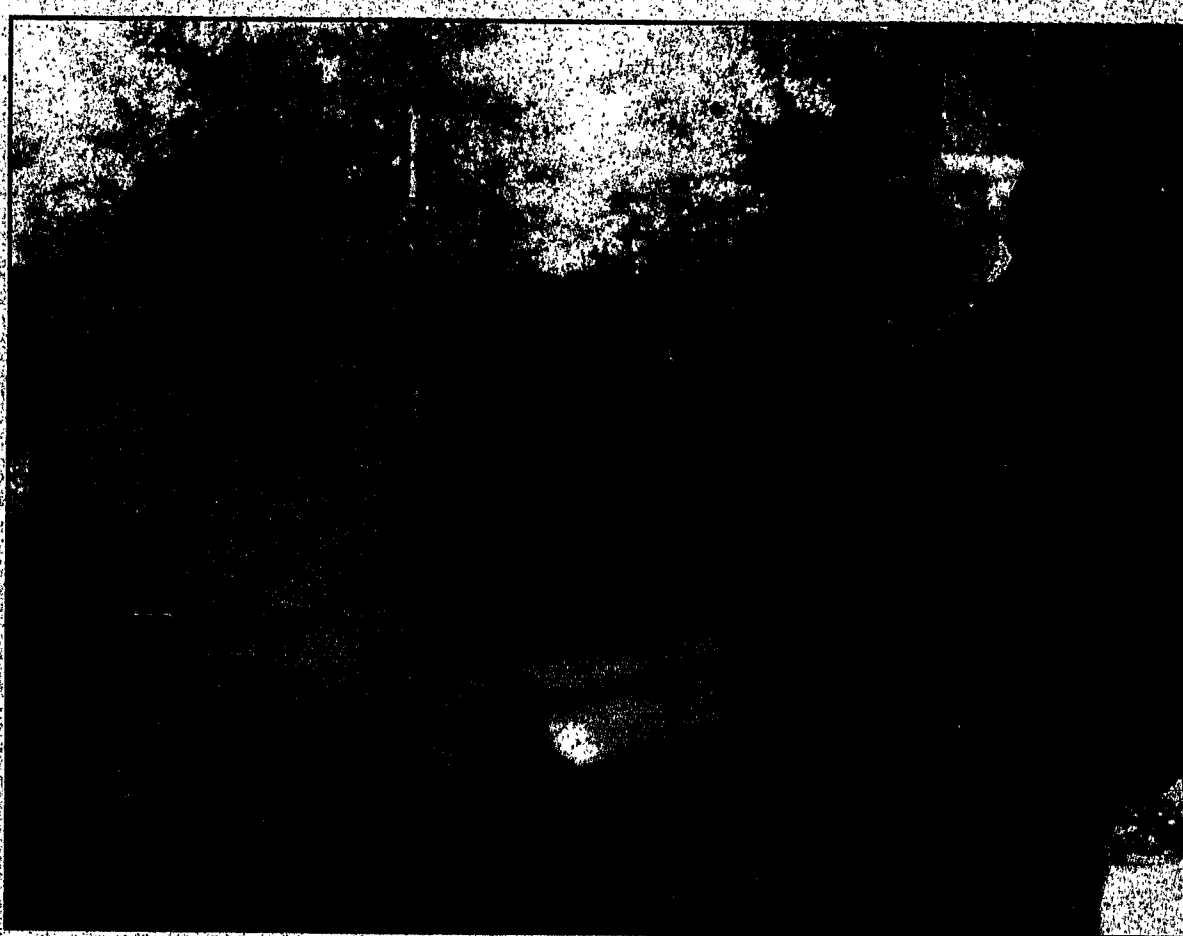

There was a legend of a woman who lived at the bridge, said Mr. Jimmie. "She had the prettiest voice and no head."

"We had a swimming hole just over there," said Myrna. "If these waters could talk, the stories they would tell."

"On Friday night we'd go fox hunting. That was a big event," said Mr. Jimmie. "We'd shake the fox out of the tree and sometime he'd want to jump on us."

"A friend climbed up a tree and the limb broke and when he fell he nearly broke his back," said Mr. Curtis.

"Would you like to go on and see where our grandparents lived and there's a confederate soldier's grave on the land," asked Myrna. "It's not very far." She sent

Student winners selected in Lunch Week promotion

During the month of October, Hancock High School and Hancock Middle School cafeterias celebrated National School Lunch Week by sponsoring a special promotion. Each time a student purchased breakfast or lunch in the cafeteria, the student's name was entered into a drawing for prizes. Three winners in the Hancock Middle School promotion were selected - two received a bicycle and the other a $50 savings bond. Hancock High School had five winners who received various gift certificates and prizes.

Those *#!# Christmas family newsletters!!!

Every Christmas, Stella and I receive Christmas Cards containing newsletters. These laser-printed letters arrive crammed full of excruciatingly detailed accounts... of how the senders, Bobb and Janeth, their two precociously adorable children, Normane and Physalia, and their amazingly lovable albino St. Bernard, Spot, gloriously plowed their way through an otherwise perfect good year.

I'm starting to feel, however, that there is a rule somewhere that if a person doesn't send a Christmas newsletter that that person has had a bad, or much worse, a dull year. I don't want people to have that impression and so I have written a Christmas newsletter that we intend to send out this coming Christmas. In case you don't receive yours, here is an advance copy:

"Seasons greetings to (name from computer Xmas list # 213)! We hope you've had a good year. As usual, ours was fabulous!

As you have undoubtedly heard, Stella has taken up hang gliding and, except for the incident with the helicopter, has done extremely well. We feel strongly that the insurance companies will get it all straightened out fairly soon.

To be honest, it was the ducks that we really feel badly about. The ducks and, of course, the partial burning of the Waveland City Hall. It still seems to both Stella and I that Mayor Longo reacted unfairly. His office was not even in that part of the building.

I, too, tried hang gliding, but lost interest after the damage I did to our front chimney. The doctor has told me that I probably will not need to have both of my knees replaced and the bricklayers have told us confidentially that the chimney was old and would probably have needed replacing anyway. They seemed very nice and after the repair work sent us lovely postcards from their new place in the Bahamas (the bricklayers, not the doctor; his place is in Bermuda).

Stella and I took the first week in May to visit Liechtenstein, Tunisia, Estonia, Iceland, Monaco, the subways of South Central Venice and of course, our yearly favorite, downtown Pittsburgh.

Despite my fluency in Russian, I found that we had language problems in many of these places. People would stop and stare with what I can only suppose was amazed delight when I began to speak even the simplest Russian phrases. However, we managed to get by these problems using an old Spanish primer that Stella luckily had with her.

I can't begin to tell you how this can be useful when things get difficult. I have found that the mere shouting of "Ole!" in a crowded room clears the air very quickly. People stop whatever they are doing and look our way with undisguised interest. In almost every instance, these same people, after finding out who we were and how long we were planning to stay, went out of their way to help speed us to the next stop on our exciting travel agenda.

We will repeat the trip next May. I am ordering a second Spanish primer.

This year Jennie, our dog has managed to patch things up with Holly, our cat. It is really amazing how cute they can be when they play together. Several times, we have looked to the back of the house in time to see Holly flying over the roof as part of Jennie's personal flying lessons. Jennie seems very pleased about Holly's progress so far and has expressed a definite eagerness to continue.

Unfortunately, Holly, who was looking rather peaked from the intensity of the lessons, is spending a few weeks with Dr. Mahler, the kindly veterinarian in the Bay. Holly has sent us several postcards from Dr. Mahler's intensive care wing.

These closely resemble bomb threats, but we are sure they were sent in the spirit of fun.

I am sorry to say that this year I was again passed over by the Nobel Prize committee. I'm sure you will agree that there has to have been some error and I have written to them about this. They replied with a very nice form letter printed in Latin with very impressive script lettering. Stella has had it framed and hung in the guest bathroom out back under the oak tree.

We do look forward to the chance of your visiting us this year. In this regard, I should say that things have changed since your last visit. We have floors in most of the rooms and the pesky cattle guard at the front door has been removed since that part of the house has been sealed off altogether. Also most of the rooms now have windows and many of these have either glass or bars.

So, (name to be filled in from computer Xmas list #213) we wish you the best tidings for the New Year and despite the rather harsh words we've exchanged in the past, a very happy ...

Ole!!!

This Christmas, 'Deck the halls with meows and collies'

Is a new pet on your Christmas list this year? Perhaps you crave a corgi, or you're thinking about a labrador puppy for the kids. Maybe a Siamese kitten for Aunt Sue, or a cockatiel for Grandma seems like just the thing.

If you're considering getting a pet for someone else, be certain that they really do WANT a pet. So many "surprise" gift animals end up neglected, given away, or abandoned after the holidays have passed. If you know that Uncle Joe would love a great little dog to keep him company, think about presenting him with a gift certificate so he can choose the dog himself, perhaps at the local animal shelter.

If an aquarium full of beautiful fish is more his style, you can arrange set-up and maintenance of the tank. Providing pet supplies, food, even initial veterinary visits or training session fees will help ensure that your well-meant gift doesn't cost the recipient more than he/she expects!

For children, finding a new puppy or kitten waiting for them under the tree on Christmas morning is exciting, but it's not the best time to introduce a new family member. Waiting until all the holiday chaos has settled down and the guests have gone home is much less stressful for the animal, and will give everyone more time to get acquainted. Packages under the tree might include accessories for the new pet, like a comfy bed or food bowls. If the pet has already been picked out, a framed photo of it would be a great stocking stuffer! Choosing to wait until after the holiday hubbub to bring home your new pet can also provide you and your family with something to look forward to during those post-Christmas "blahs."

Pet Projects

by Paula Leoni

Remember that when the tinsel is packed away and the last Christmas cookie is eaten, a pet will still be there, needing daily care and attention.

I hope you enjoy many happy holidays together with your pet!

Our Lady Academy TIP Students 2004

The Ladners retained ownership of their land when Stennis came in and like many decided to lease it to the government rather than sell it. Even though they can no longer live on their property, many families still visit their old home sites. Many still hope that one day the land in the Buffer Zone will be released so they can return home. The families are responsible for paying property taxes on the property they can mostly just walk through or use to graze cattle or dirt mine.

We had to go through a gate to reach the old home-site. I couldn't imagine having to leave such a place where somehow the greens were greener and the birds song was sweeter and a peacefulness so obviously permeated the air as it blew through the treetops. "There was a beautiful lawn right over there," said Myrna. The spot where the house had been was now a cow barn for her brother Jeep's cows.

"Let's go find the grave," said Myrna and we set out along the bayou with Mr. Jimmie leading and Myrna and I, Mr. Curtis and Albie following behind.

There, deep in the woods were three marked graves: David Wainright, U.S. Navy, July 7, 1897; Milian Beeson Wainright, February, 1873; and C. Jonathan Beeson, MS PVT Company G3 Mississippi Infantry, Confederate States Army.

We pressed on looking at other old home sites, one set of steps remaining in place, the old Prince Ladner gas well, and favorite fishing places. There were still a million other places to see, but they would have to wait for another day and when we all promised to get together again. After just one day I never wanted to leave.

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Krewe of Hera Mardi Gras Organization is looking forward to another exciting year. Hera, a Gulf Coast Ladies carnival association with members from cities all along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, was founded in 1985. Hera's membership is limited to 225 ladies.

Officers were elected at Hera's annual general membership meeting, which was held March 8, 2004, at the Biloxi Yacht Club. Elected Captain for the coming year was Debbie McVadon. This is her seventh year on the Board of Directors. She has previously served as a Line

Lieutenant for three years. Other officers elected for the upcoming year are as follows: First Vice-President, Georgie Breard; Second Vice-President, Wanda LeBlanc; Third Vice-President, Donna O'Rourke; Recording Secretary, Sherry Garrett; Corresponding Secretary, Debbie Chatagnier; and Treasurer, Karen Fayard.

Line Lieutenants for this year are Angela Culbertson, Judith D'Angelo, Alison Davis, Darlene Fore, Elizabeth Griswold, Sally Romero, Terri Tomsik and Courtney Webb.

The Royal Court for 2005 was introduced at the fall cocktail party October 2, 2004, at the Great Southern Club, King Zeus XX. Mr. Les Briggs, was announced along with the maids and dukes. Queen Hera XX, Mrs. Allison Boggess, was drawn and announced from the names of Hera's Queen Club participants this year.

The Krewe of Hera twentieth annual Bal Masque will be held December 31, 2004, at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum Convention Center. For ticket information, please contact Wanda LeBlanc at 896-1993 or 388-1547.

Hera parades with the Krewe of Neptune, with the Neptune/Hera parade rolling through the streets of Biloxi on Fat Tuesday.

AREA DEVOTIONAL & DIRECTORY PAGES

'Tis the season to find people

Holidays are not good!" sighed a young widow of just two weeks. It was the first time in her life that she had said such a thing, for now the harsh reality of her soul mate's terminal illness and journey on to God settled upon her. More than two decades of loving sharing and intimacy were now just a treasure of beautiful memories.

As the season of Advent makes its annual appearance, we are all admonished strongly to look critically within ourselves, to find an area or areas where we need to turn our lives around, and to commit ourselves to complete conversion and positive change.

Yes, since charity begins at home, we find conversion's most immediate results and blessings in our own personal lives. Relief from negative stress and worry, relaxation, peace and a measure of contentment find their way into our very being and spirit.

As a wonderful bonus, in our ensuing spiritual progress we discover that we are more stable, stronger, more content, more serene, and more sensitive to others. This happy chain of events begins the benign cycle of people needing people finding people. Advent, then, is a prime season both of deep spirituality and satisfying social relationships.

"People who need people are the luckiest people in the world." So, this felt need of people who have outlived their families is not just a burdensome dictate of advancing age, but a loving adjustment which can and should be made by all of us as we mature.

We are not just "the luckiest people in the world" when we need people, because it is the special, loving disposition of God that we have been created to need him and to need each other. It is not luck. With God, there are no accidents, but only Providence.

As our own family members dwindle through attrition with the ravages of time, illness and death, it is natural to seek a family substitute. Children who feel neglected, abused, not accepted or respected, gravitate toward the support of gangs for this reason.

Adults may have all the above-mentioned reasons for seeking a new family support system. Providentially, there are many opportunities on today's landscape to find a group which fulfills the individual needs of people of any age no matter where they live.

The Young At Heart, the People Program and a host of other programs around the country offer a friendly, comfortable atmosphere where the lonely, the bereaved, the elderly and the rejected can relax, be themselves and participate in fulfilling activities.

Aging, lonely people awaken in the morning and feel their motor driven toward the camaraderie, the stimulating activities and the supportive environment of whatever program for the elderly exists in their community. One needs only look at their faces and observe their body language to see how much they appreciate and cherish their program.

Mind games such as crossword puzzles and other word and quiz games, dominoes and bingo have been found to stave off dreaded mental invasions like Alzheimer's disease.

Clearly, the aging process itself is slowed by the positive interaction of active minds.

So, even as we age and become more and more oriented to otherworldly thoughts and considerations, there are simple, mundane, everyday support groups, attitudes and joyful activities which go hand in glove with faith in our Creator and love for each other.

"Holidays are not good," need not be the norm nor the attitude at all of people who have lost one or more persons dear to them. At the very least, we are strengthened by the powerful belief that we and all our dear ones will meet again in our Father's kingdom, just as we celebrated recently on the feast of All Saints.

But even while we tarry here on earth, we have myriads of people who need people and who, therefore, are as eager as we to find those other people who need people. Even the distraught young widow who said "Holidays are not good" ended the conversation with a gesture toward God and the telling remark: "It is good to be around people."

Translated, that means we do not have to fall victim to SAD, Seasonal Affective Disorder, the clinical term coined by psychologists to describe the Anniversary Syndrome or the Holiday Blues which notoriously afflict the bereaved or lonely during the holidays.

We have both supernatural and natural recourse to the best of resources and supports.

Thus, the aging have a plethora of comfortable and comforting groups from which to choose what suits them best. "Aging in Place" is a buzz phrase stemming from the desire of 9 out of 10 of the elderly to live in their own homes.

Birthing in St. Paul, Minnesota, the Living at Home/Block Nurse Program is one of the foremost viable, working examples in operation. Meals on Wheels served to seniors in their homes is a tried and true variation, while Senior Dining Rooms is the reverse idea which invites seniors to gather at designated places for their meals.

The Council on Aging is an umbrella group which initiates, implements and oversees enterprises such as the Senior Meals Program. No matter in what area of the nation our aging live, there is an equivalent of the Council on Aging plus many special programs.

Advent is a connecting time which invites us to connect first with our own innermost self, ferreting out the negatives and deficiencies in our personality and character. As we reach out to connect with others, we, the aging, naturally look toward other aging people.

At the same time, we must somehow keep in mind the middle-aged, young adults, adolescents and children, because all of us form one big family and we all stand in need of people. Our focus is more on the elderly because, more than all the other age groups, they are the most likely to fall through the cracks without appreciable help from anyone.

Advent must not be ignored or simply sloughed off as an annual perfunctory exercise. We are all people who need people and who need God most of all.

Reflections on Life

From thinking maps to edible spiders

First graders in Robin Gex's class at East Hancock Elementary don't just sit quietly and have a story read to them. Instead they immerse themselves into the story with educational hands-on activities. Mrs. Gex calls this concept of beginning reading exposure an "author study".

Recently the class completed a month long author study on Eric Carle. The study began with a circle map focused on who Eric Carle is and what types of books he writes. The students used context information to define their idea and to show how they wanted it represented. Eric Carle has written many children's books and the class was exposed to at least 23 of those but they decided to focus on just a few of them.

The project began with the study of The Very Hungry Caterpillar where families made decorative butterflies to be displayed in the hall during the school's Open House. They also used a scientific flow map to show the transformation stages of the egg on a leaf to the butterfly to help clarify the process in their first grade minds.

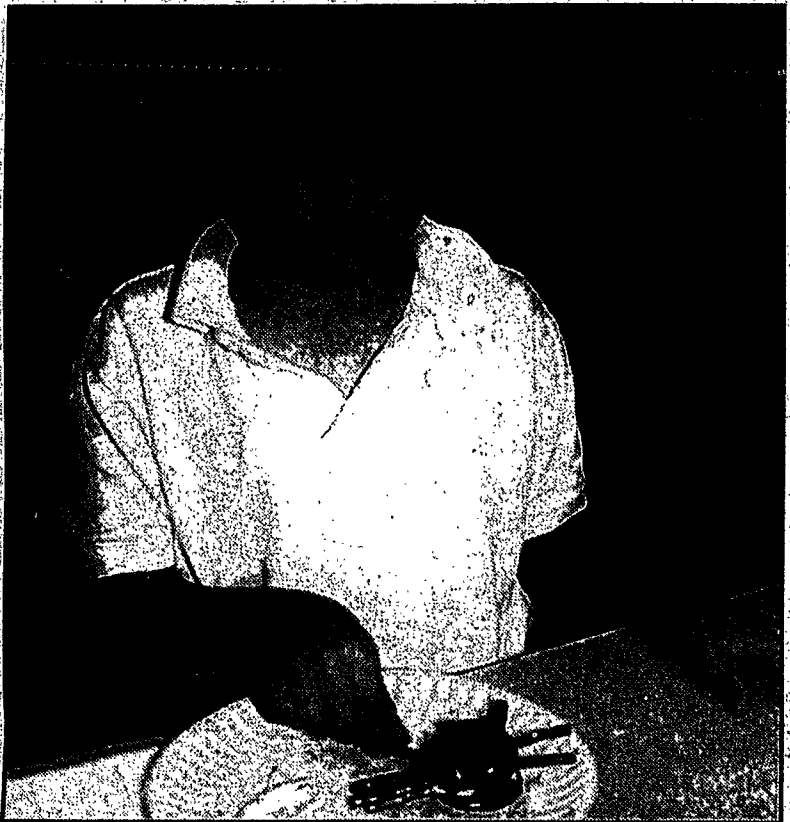

Photos courtesy of Robin Gex. Chris Smith, All Hennessey and Grace Parker toss beanbags in a math activity based on the book The Very Grouchy Ladybug.

Next the class read the book The Very Lonely Firefly and used only adjectives on a double bubble map to compare and contrast it to The Very Hungry Caterpillar. They also participated in a colorful art activity where they needed to identify and correctly assemble the parts of a firefly.

Another book the students concentrated on was The Very Grouchy Ladybug. One of the activities was an interactive writing skill to learn sentence structure. This was accomplished by finishing the phrase "I am grouchy when...". In a different activity, the class practiced math facts by tossing two ladybug beanbags and adding up the number of dots displayed.

Before the students completed their study of The Very Busy Spider, they made an edible art project where the kids needed to identify the parts of the spider and assemble it correctly before eating their creation. The Eric Carle author study taught the class how to organize thoughts, compare and contrast items, develop language skills and beginning math facts and also touched on science, allowing students to think of "reading a book" as a whole new experience.

First grader, Avery Dodd assembles a spider after learning about them in the Eric Carle book The Very Busy Spider.

Katie Morris uses a double bubble map to compare two Eric Carle books in Mrs. Gex's class at East Hancock Elementary.

Passionate Observer: Eudora Welty among artists of the thirties on view at the Walter Anderson Museum

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Walter Anderson Museum of Art is pleased to announce the upcoming exhibition, Passionate Observer: Eudora Welty among Artists of the Thirties, which will be on view until January 30, 2005. Recently presented at the National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington, D.C. to critical and public acclaim, this traveling exhibition was developed by the Mississippi Museum of Art in Jackson, Mississippi.

The Walter Anderson Museum has now been selected as the only venue in Mississippi to receive this remarkable exhibit.

This striking exhibition features more than 100 works including photographs, paintings, drawings, and prints by notable American artists of the 1930s. Central to this exhibition are Eudora Welty's dramatic photographs of Mississippi, Louisiana, and New York during the Great Depression. Welty's images from this time period are placed alongside works by artists such as Edward Hopper, Thomas Hart Benton; photographers Berenice Abbott, Margaret Bourke-White, Dorothea Lange, Ben Shahn; and Southern artists Walter Anderson, William Hollingsworth, Marie Hull, and Karl Wolfe. Such placement allows the viewer to compare Welty's artistic motivation with visual interpretations of her contemporaries from this period.

Sensitive in spirit and acute observers of the human condition, Walter Anderson and Eudora Welty shared a humane worldview, which they were able to expertly convey in their artistic works. There are currently six exceptional Walter Anderson pieces in the exhibit, which the Museum will augment with additional Anderson creations.

"Walter Anderson and Eudora Welty, in their respective media, rank in the top tier of Mississippi artists," said Patricia Pinson, Ph.D., curator of the Walter Anderson Museum. "Both of these masters were passionate image makers, and we are delighted to display some of their finest works alongside each other, thereby illuminating the connection between these fascinating individuals."

Renowned author Eudora Welty was born in Jackson, Mississippi, in 1909 and was a life-long resident until her death in 2001.

Her interest in photography was further nourished through her acquaintance with other Mississippi artists, such as Marie Hull, Karl Wolfe, William Hollingsworth, and Jay Lotterhos. Both a compassionate observer of the world and an ardent photographer, Eudora Welty used the camera much as she used language—to document the economic instability and prevailing personal hardship experienced by the Great Depression.

As the Great Depression deepened a need to look at and define the country's character, artists nationwide focused on the activities and patterns of everyday life in America. While some artists chose to critique it, some to glorify it, and others simply to show it, this collective focus was known as the American Scene Movement, which virtually produced a self-portrait of the nation during the trying times of the 1930s. Some of the artists were social realists, like Edward Hopper, whose works illuminated urban societal problems. At the same time, Regionalists, such as Thomas Hart Benton, were intent on creating authentic American art by depicting experiences of rural America.

While Welty and fellow artists in Jackson did participate in the American Scene Movement, they did not indulge in the overt patriotism that the style evoked in many of the nationally known artists of this era. Rather, Welty's photographs taken during the Great Depression are evidence of her optimism about the human spirit and pride in the South. It is through her words and pictures that one shares in Welty's celebration of her home and her people.

With Welty's discerning artistic vision, she captures many aspects of life during this period, confirming why she was known as the 'ultimate passionate observer of her time.' More than just a chronicle, Welty's photographs, like her celebrated story writing, reveal the courage and dignity of the American people during this singular era.

In addition, the exhibition features the work of the first woman photojournalist who worked during this period, Margaret Bourke-White, as well as five photographers who worked for The Farm Security Administration (FSA) during the 1930s. The black-and-white photographs taken by artists Walker Evans, Dorothea Lange, Arthur Rothstein, Ben Shahn and Marion Post Wolcott feature farm life in Mississippi during the Great Depression and are a landmark in the history of documentary photography. The FSA photographs, which portrayed the disheartened, impoverished state of the nation, side by side with those of Eudora Welty, emphasize her compassionate understanding of humanity and awareness of the resilient American spirit.

This exhibit will preview on November 18, 2004 from 6:00 - 8:00 P.M. Light refreshments will be served.

This exhibit is circulated by International Arts & Artists, Washington, DC.

This project is supported in part by funding from the Mississippi Arts Commission, a state agency, and in part, from the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

Bluegrass master Skaggs plays Bay Magic

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Bluegrass musician, Ricky Skaggs and his band Kentucky Thunder are set to perform two shows at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on January 14th and 15th at 9 p.m. A professional musician for 30 years, this eight-time Grammy Award winner continues to do his part to lead the recent roots revival in music with five consecutive Grammy nominated albums.

Tickets for these performances are on sale now for $14.95, $19.95 or $24.95 at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

Skaggs, now 50, was born in eastern Kentucky and was already an accomplished singer and mandolin player by the time he reached his teens. In the late 70s, Skaggs turned his attention to country music. Though still in his twenties, the wealth of experience and talent he possessed served him well, first as a member of Emmylou Harris' Hot Band and later as an individual recording artist.

With the release of Waiting for the Sun to Shine in 1981, Skaggs reached the top of the country charts, and remained there throughout most of the 1980s. As his popularity soared, he garnered eight awards from the Country Music Association (including "Entertainer of the Year" in 1985), four Grammy Awards and dozens of other honors.

In 1997, Skaggs established his own record label which became home to his band, Kentucky Thunder. When Skaggs & Kentucky Thunder perform, their concerts have a non-stop, no-holds-barred energy that reflects both sincere, enthusiasm and consummate professionalism. It is an awesome experience, one that brings both old and new audiences to their feet.

Ricky Skaggs has often said that he is "just trying to make a living" playing the music he loves.

But it's clear that his passion for bluegrass puts him in the position to bring this lively, distinctively American form of music out of isolation and into the ears and hearts to audiences across the country and around the world.

Don't miss Ricky Skaggs, January 14th & 15th at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis! Must be at least 21 to attend.

Aiken sees in the season with his first Christmas special

By John Crook
© Zap2it

One of today's most popular male vocalists takes the spotlight for his first yuletide special as "A Clay Aiken Christmas" premieres Wednesday, Dec. 8, on NBC.

The 26-year-old former "American Idol" star welcomes Barry Manilow, Yolanda Adams and Emmy winner Megan Mullally of "Will & Grace" for an intimate hour of holiday music performed against a traditional Christmas backdrop.

"Barry Manilow is someone I have been compared to, and he was someone I was listening to long before I was doing anything like this," Aiken says. "Yolanda Adams is extremely talented, too, and I have this whole new level of respect for Megan. Before this, I didn't know she had started out in Broadway musicals, but she just has a killer voice."

The NBC special airs on the heels of the mid-November release of Aiken's "Merry Christmas With Love" compact disc, which means he's been in full jingle-bell mode since late last spring.

"I've been doing Christmas since May, so I don't know that I have a favorite Christmas song anymore, you know?" he says with a laugh. "But there's a song in the special called 'Mary, Did You Know?' a spiritual that hasn't been done that much in the secular world. It's on the album, too, and it's probably one of my favorites. There are very few Christmas songs done in a minor key and a very introspective manner. It's a very, very haunting and intimate song for the holiday."

Normally, Aiken says, he would be looking forward to the holidays as a chance to spend time with his extended family. But his current tour, "Joyful Noise," started two weeks ago.

"I think I have the 24th and 25th off, but that's pretty much it," he says.

"I guess maybe I'm a little bit of a Christmas junkie after all, because I'm excited about this special and about the whole tour. The other tours I've done this year have been great, don't get me wrong, but this one will have a whole different attitude to it. It's a feel-good tour, even more family-oriented and warm and classy."

Horoscope This Week

By Caroline James - Zap2it

Dec. 5 through Dec. 11, 2004

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

You'll feel refreshed enough to sign up for a new course. Study what you've most wanted to learn.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

A corner is turned in your hassles from last week. Don't breathe easy just yet, though.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

All those romance issues will seem like old news. Relationships aren't always short-lived.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

Relief comes in the form of good news related to a health issue. Next time, don't wait so long.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

You're getting so many ideas, you can't keep up. Try keeping a journal.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

It seems as though the hassles of your life are letting up. Hopefully, you've learned from past issues.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

It's a new day for friendships and associations, thanks to your wise move. Pat yourself on the back.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

Financial issues are working themselves out, much to your delight. Now you have room to breathe.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

You'll be able to smooth over things you've said that may have offended someone.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

You recently have figured out some important things about yourself that you can put to good use.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

When you realize that people aren't as centered on your feelings, you'll know they didn't mean to insult.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

"NFL Football" Sunday, Dec. 5

(ESPN, 8:30 p.m. ET): The wait seems to have been worth it so far for Steelers rookie Ben Roethlisberger. The Miami of Ohio product anxiously watched two quarterbacks get picked before the Steelers plucked him No. 11 in the draft, and all Big Ben has done this season is evoke comparisons to Terry Bradshaw and Dan Marino. The Jags are expected to have their own up-and-comer under center tonight in Byron Leftwich, who injured his left knee Oct. 31.

"NBA Basketball" Friday, Dec. 10

(ESPN, 10:30 p.m. ET): NBA coaches get fired at a rate that would make Donald Trump proud ... except in Utah, where Jerry Sloan is in his 17th season orchestrating the Jazz, a team-first band of youngsters who should make noise all season in the West. Carlos Boozer and Mehmet Okur are newcomers to a frontcourt that already included versatile Andrei Kirilenko, with Carlos Arroyo and Keith McLeod running the show. Tonight, Northwest Division rival Portland pays a visit.

"College Basketball" Saturday, Dec. 11 (CBS, 4 p.m. ET): The daunting task of replacing perhaps its three best players as well as long-time successful head coach Mike Montgomery gets fully realized for Stanford today against powerful Michigan State. Former Nevada coach Trent Johnson is now shouting out plays for the Cardinal, and he'll call the number of junior guard Chris Hernandez plenty of times. Defensively, Stanford will have to contain a Spartan team that set shooting percentage records a year ago.

Celebrity Scoop

Alan Dale schemes in 'The O.C.'

Alan Dale

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

It's good to be bad, as actor Alan Dale has discovered on Fox's hit Thursday soap "The O.C."

Dale plays Caleb Nichol, the Newport Beach, Calif., real estate developer whose daughter, Kirsten (Kelly Rowland), is married to idealistic attorney Sandy Cohen (Peter Gallagher).

This season, Caleb's business misdeeds have gotten him in trouble with the law, and he may be looking at time behind bars. But this day on the Manhattan Beach, Calif., set of "The O.C.," Caleb has other concerns.

"I'm spending far too much time in a young lady's bedroom," Dale says in his native New Zealand accent, "which is a bit of a worry for me, but I can't tell you more than that."

"She's very young. I don't think there's anything sexual involved. But it's a little disturbing when he finds scantily clad young ladies in his house."

But is Caleb truly evil, or just misunderstood? "Wow," Dale says, "gosh, I don't think that I'm evil at all. But to the outside observer, I look a bit evil. I just think that I want what I want. My mother used to say to me, 'You want what you want when you want it, and it's no good.' It's a bit of that in there."

After a career Down Under - including a stint in the hit Australian soap "Neighbours" - Dale came to the United States.

"It's what I've always wanted to do," he says, "and the only regret I have in life is that I didn't come here 20 years ago. Apart from that, it's marvelous, and I've had a wonderful time."

"It's funny, because I was actually told how tough it was going to be, how ruthless people were here. I've found people to be pretty brutally honest, which sometimes means you don't get what you want - but just in my normal getting-a-job thing, it's been delightful."

Birthplace: Dunedin, New Zealand, on May 6, 1947.

Trek cred: Played Praetor Hiren in the feature film "Star Trek: Nemesis."

X cred: Played the Toothpick Man in several episodes of "The X-Files," including the two-hour finale.

Caleb cred: Dale has worn that name twice. In the 1999 TV movie "First Daughter" and in "The O.C."

Political cred: He's played Vice President Jim Prescott to President David Palmer in "24" and Secretary of Commerce Mitch Bryce to President Jed Bartlet in "The West Wing" both in the 2002-03 TV season.

On a sunny but chilly spring morning, an eerie time warp seems to have settled over North Carolina Speedway in Rockingham.

Two sets of race cars speed along opposite sides of the track, each group a mirror image of the other, except one group is shiny and new, the other aged and scarred by accidents.

There are no fans jamming the spectator area, just cameras recording the action for "3," a TV movie chronicling the life and career of driver Dale Earnhardt, who died in a 2001 crash. The movie, which stars Barry Pepper as Earnhardt, premieres Saturday, Dec. 11, on ESPN.

On this production day, as the crew breaks for lunch, Pepper heads to his trailer while an assistant fetches a plate of down-home North Carolina fare from a nearby chow wagon. Pepper himself would have been just as happy to stand in line with his castmates, but he's a co-executive producer on this ESPN original movie, in which capacity he is sitting down with a reporter to talk about the project.

Virtually unrecognizable under the prosthetic makeup that transforms him into an unsettling ringer for Earnhardt, the 34-year-old Canadian actor is cordial but obviously very much aware of what is riding on this movie, not just for him, but for the late NASCAR champion's family, friends and legions of fans.

"Dale was a fierce competitor who earned the respect of his fans the hard way," says Pepper, who plays Earnhardt from ages 16 to 49 in the movie. "We wanted to do it right. I wouldn't have done the movie if we couldn't do it right."

That's not surprising, given that Pepper earlier had a vivid lesson in how high the stakes can be when an actor portrays a real person rather than a character spun from fiction.

The actor received widespread acclaim for his portrayal of baseball star Roger Maris in the 2001 HBO movie "61," and none of the cheers were louder than those from members of the Maris family, who had been chilly to the project until they saw the warmth and humanity Pepper brought to his performance.

"Of course, the stakes are higher (when you're playing a real person)," Pepper says. "How could they not be? I would have to be incredibly arrogant not to recognize and respect the fact that I am playing someone who touched a lot of lives."

It's been a huge privilege to bring Dale's legacy to film, and it's been an immense challenge as well. Just as I knew it would be," he continues. "We've come here (to North Carolina) so we could shoot this movie in a lot of the places where things actually happened - sometimes even with the same people around. I think this is just about as close as we could get to the real thing, and I'm really, really proud of what we've been able to do."

With Elizabeth Mitchell ("The Santa Clause 2") on board as Teresa Earnhardt, Dale's third wife after two early failed unions, and J.K. Simmons ("Spider-Man") playing Ralph Earnhardt, his gruff, hardworking dad, "3" also incorporates mostly local actors as other supporting players and extras. Newcomer Chad McCumbee, who plays Dale Jr. in the TV movie, is an aspiring NASCAR driver in real life.

"He just knocked us out," Pepper says of McCumbee. "If he wants to have a career as an actor, he certainly could do it, because he's a natural."

Directed by Russell Mulcahy ("Highlander"), "3" opens in 1961 in Kannapolis, N.C., the small mill town where both Ralph Earnhardt and eventually his son turned to racing as a way to escape

Actor Barry Pepper underwent several days of training at a North Carolina driving school for his role in "3," an ESPN original movie that debuts Saturday. He also is co-executive producer of the film.

being "lintheads," as the towel-mill workers were called.

Scrambling to provide for his wife and five kids, Ralph Earnhardt passes along to his son both a love for racing ("They can't put it in you, and they can't take it out," he tells Dale) as well as an unyielding "winning is everything" philosophy.

The winner ain't the one with the fastest car. It's the one who refuses to lose," he tells his son at a key point, a motto Dale eventually translates into his own credo: "Second place is just the first loser."

In an underwritten role, Mitchell has the radiant intelligence to help illuminate why this third marriage was the charm for Earnhardt, while Simmons softens Ralph's gruffness just enough to show that he thinks the demands he places on Dale are nothing compared with how life will test his son later.

Another Lowe point for 'West Wing' alum

Q I am a Rob Lowe fan. What's going on with his show "Graveyard Book"? -Stephen Dunson, Troy, N.Y.

A Nothing. CBS axed the show after only a few airings. It was Lowe's third series in six seasons. After playing Sam Seaborn on NBC's "The West Wing" for its first four years, he moved on to the same network's "The Lyon's Den," which also ended up having only a brief life last fall. You can anticipate seeing Lowe in more TV movies at least, since he's also made his mark there. He starred in the recent CBS romantic comedy "Perfect Strangers," which was preceded by his turn in the TNT remake of Stephen King's horror tale "Salem's Lot."

Q Could you please tell me what happened to the new show "Graveyard Book"? -Joan, Wildwood Crest, N.J.

A The NBC series was one of the first of this season's shows to premiere. It also was one of the first to be yanked, and for the standard reason: low ratings. The network's official line is that the show is "on hiatus," but if it comes back at all, don't expect it to happen in the very near future.

Q Could you tell me the name of the young man who played Mark on "The Rifleman" and what he's doing now? -M.J., Sugarland, Texas

A That's Johnny Crawford, a young TV idol before it became more the norm. Back in the day, he even released a hit song, "Cindy's Birthday."

A "Mickey Mouse Club" Mouseketeer early in that show's run in the mid-1950s, Crawford basically has retired from acting. He usually does Westerns when he reappears, as with a couple of "Gambler" TV projects based on the Kenny Rogers song.

Q When will the series "Summerland" return? -Tim Beebe, Ypsilanti, Mich.

A There wasn't a firm date set at press time. The WB Network simply labeled the time frame "midseason," which could be any time between January and April. We aren't surprised by the order for a second season of Lori Loughlin's family drama. With all the hue and cry about original programming by several broadcast networks last summer, "Summerland" was just about the only new show to prove itself a genuine ratings success.

Soap Talk

Hutzler takes it off for 'Days'

Brody Hutzler

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

When Brody Hutzler joined the cast of "Days of our Lives" in the role of Patrick Lockhart, he had already experienced life on a soap opera from his roles as Cody Dixon in "The Young and the Restless" and Zachary Smith in "Guiding Light." So he was quite surprised at the amount of input "Days" allowed him to contribute to his character.

"They write and direct it in such a way that it gives you a lot of freedom," Hutzler says. "It took me a little while to get used to because at 'Y&R,' they are more hands-on. They want more specific things from people. But 'Days' has been great. I wanted to try some things, and they let me do it."

That said, Hutzler was not prepared for one big difference: The actors on "Days" take their shirts off a lot more than on other shows.

"It's crazy," the actor says. "I had no idea. I auditioned in a T-shirt and jeans. I think I had my shirt off once on each of the other shows, but never like this."

So the pressure is on for Hutzler, who now makes going to the gym a part of his job and has made boxing part of his workout.

"We don't hit anyone," he says. "We use bags because I can't get my nose broken. It would be bad for me. "I started boxing seven or eight months ago with Thad Luckinbill from 'Y&R,' then I started going more often because I liked it."

Dear Paulette: Please give me some information on the man that plays Alistair Crane on "Passions." I've seen him play on lots of movies. Thank you. -Sharon Wells, Teachey, N.C.

Dear Reader: David Bailey took over the role of Alistair Crane on Sept. 27. His previous soap roles include Teddy Malcolm (1988-89) on "Ryan's Hope" and 10 years as Dr. Russell Matthews on "Another World."

The Newark, N.J., native was born Oct. 27, 1933, and has also starred in "Something the Lord Made," "The Believer" and "Above the Rim."

Tuesday

8 p.m. on HALL

Movie: Once Upon a Christmas
Santa (Douglas Campbell) is burned out, and his lovely daughter Kristin (Kathy Ireland) makes him a deal: If she can convert one naughty family, Christmas will be saved. But the randomly chosen family is a tough case: the widowed, workaholic father Bill (John Dye) wants nothing to do with the holiday his late wife loved so much, and the kids (James Kirk, Kirsten Prout) are only in it for the presents.

Wednesday

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The 2004 Billboard Music Awards
As one of the most respected music magazines in the industry, Billboard honors those performers who top its charts. Broadcast from MGM Grand Garden Arena in Las Vegas, the ceremony honors Stevie

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: Mr. St. Nick

It's nothing new in real life or in the movies (remember "The Jazz Singer"?): Dad wants his son to follow in his footsteps, and Junior wants to go his own way. But what if Dad is Santa Claus, and leaving his footsteps unfilled means disappointing children all over the world? Kelsey Grammer stars in this 2002 comedy as the younger Claus, who prefers the Miami party scene to his father's bag. Charles Durning plays Santa.

Saturday

3 p.m. on FAM

Movie: Santa and Pete

The legend of Santa Claus gets a different twist in this world premiere TV movie. Grandfather Nicholas (James Earl Jones) recounts, one snowy Christmas Eve, how the Christian St. Nicholas (Hume Cronyn) was arrested for espionage during a Spanish pilgrimage and left to molder in jail. The prison cook, a Moor named Pete (Flex Alexander), springs Nick and joins him in helping those in need. Tempest Bledsoe ("The Cosby Show") also stars.

5 p.m. on FAM

Movie: Eloise at the Plaza

Based on the delightful series of children's books written by Kay Thompson and illustrated by Hilary Knight (who makes a cameo appearance), this 2003 movie stars 10-year-old newcomer Sofia Vassilieva as the precocious Eloise, who lives at New York's famed Plaza Hotel with her British nanny (Julie Andrews), a pug dog and a turtle. In this tale, Eloise's search for adventure upsets a debutante ball and a visiting prince.

TV Trivia

Lauren Ambrose ("Six Feet Under") is a trained opera singer whose father is a caterer and whose mother is an interior designer.

Ernest Borgnine ("The Dirty Dozen") was married to Ethel Merman for 32 days, and in her autobiography, the chapter about him is a blank page.

Gloria Reuben ("Nick of Time") left her successful role on "ER" to sing backup for Tina Turner on her last international tour.

Patrick Stewart ("X-Men") quit school at 15 to work as a reporter but left when an editor said he spent too much time at the theater.

Scott Bakula ("Enterprise") started a rock band in fourth grade, dabbled in lyric writing and sang with the St. Louis Symphony.

Sunday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
Movie: The Five People You Meet in Heaven
Jon Voight stars in this new three-hour drama based on the best-selling book by Mitch Albom ("Tuesdays With Morrie"). He plays Eddie, an elderly ride repairman at an amusement park, who dies trying to save a child. After his death, he discovers that heaven is not paradise; it's a briefing room, where five people whose paths he crossed during his life explain what it was all about. Ellen Burstyn and Jeff Daniels also star.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
Movie: The Family Man
Nicolas Cage goes the "It's a Wonderful Life" route in this 2000 fantasy-comedy, casting him as a work-driven bachelor who magically gets to live the life he passed up years earlier. He suddenly finds himself married to a former girlfriend (Tea Leoni) and enjoying domesticity more than he ever imagined, forcing him to make big decisions about his future. Don Cheadle and Jeremy Piven co-star.

7 p.m. and TNT
Movie: The Librarian: Quest for the Spear
 Library worker Flynn Carsen (Noah Wyle) holds the fate of the world in his hands in this new adventure drama. His job is to guard a stash of treasures hidden under a large public library. One of them is a spear that's in three pieces. When they're put together, whoever possesses it will rule the world. It's up to Carsen to prevent that from happening after one piece is stolen. Kyle MacLachlan and Olympia Dukakis also star.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS
Movie: A Very Married Christmas

Joe Mantegna stars in this new drama as a computer consultant who volunteers as a mall Santa after his wife (Jean Smart) tells him she wants a divorce. He finds comfort, if not joy, working with a photographer (Kari Matchett) with her own marital woes. Christmas doesn't look merry for either of them, but don't tell that to Ozzie (Charles Durning), a fellow Santa who believes in miracles — especially at this time of year.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS
Great Performances

Fans who missed out on tickets for Josh Groban's tour this year can still catch his act, in the new episode of "Josh Groban Live at the Greek," the baby-faced baritone sings his hit "You Raise Me Up" with a backup from a gospel choir, performs two songs he wrote, plays piano and takes a turn on the drums. Another young musical phenom, Mantegna violinist Lucia Micarelli, joins Groban on "Mi Mancherai."

8 p.m. on BRAV
Significant Other

This new episode kicks off a second season of the one-of-a-kind unscripted sitcom about four couples navigating the ups and downs of marriage. There are plenty of issues to resolve and stories to continue from the first season, including Bill's and Connie's (Fred Goss, Jane Edith Wilson) infidelities, and Eleanor and Ethan's (Faith Salie, Herschel Bleefeld) impending parenthood. Chris Spencer and Nicole Randall Johnson also star.

8 p.m. on HBO

Movie: The Life and Death of Peter Sellers
Academy Award-winner Geoffrey Rush ("Shine") stars in this new biography of the chameleon actor who played every role brilliantly... except the role of Peter Sellers. Another Oscar winner, Charlize Theron, portrays Sellers' second wife, actress Britt Ekland. John Lithgow appears as Blake Edwards, who directed Sellers in the "Pink Panther" films. Stanley Tucci and Emily Watson also star.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
Fear Factor

Playing Santa is one of the challenges in the new episode "Nightmare on Elves Street," but "Ho, ho, ho!" may be replaced by "Help, help, help!" as contestants must get past three vicious dogs to deliver their goods. Another stunt has them mowing down snowmen with a car. What's so hard about that, you ask? Oh, didn't we mention they have to flip the car onto its roof first? Joe Rogan hosts.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Everybody Loves Raymond
 There's only one thing Ray (Ray Romano) wants to unwrap this Christmas: Debra (Patricia Heaton). She finally succumbs to his charms on Christmas morning — just as the rest of the family is arriving to have breakfast and open presents. Ray is a man on a mission, however, and he's determined to do whatever it takes to get his Christmas wish. Doris Roberts and Peter Boyle also star in "All I Want for Christmas."

8 p.m. on 6-NBC
Las Vegas

In the new episode "My Beautiful Launderette," a client of Sam's (Vanessa Marcil) is using the Montecito to launder money for a drug cartel. Sam agrees to help the FBI catch some of the cartel's leaders. It's hugs, not drugs, on the minds of both Mike and Delinda (James Lesure, Molly Sims). He's trying to woo a woman he's sure is Ms. Right, while she's smitten with a hunky rodeo rider (guest star Michael Lowry).

8 p.m. and DSC

Mysterious Death of Cleopatra
 We all know how Cleopatra died... or do we? She committed suicide by letting a poisonous snake bite her... or did she? In this new special, part of Discovery's "Egypt Week," a cold-case criminal profiler leads a team of experts on a quest for the truth, using modern-day crime-solving techniques and technology to determine how — and why — the Egyptian queen's life ended.

8 p.m. on ESPN

3 Nation: The Life and Legacy of Dale Earnhardt
 This new special goes behind the scenes of the new TV movie "3," starring Barry Pepper, which premieres Saturday on the sports channel. Fans of the late NASCAR star will want to tune in not only for the racing footage but for the reminiscences about their idol, who was killed in a wreck at the Daytona 500 in 2001.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

CSI: Miami
 A drive-by shooting is staged from a speedboat that passes a party site in "Pro Per." The event's host (guest star Laz Alonso) has no shortage of enemies, and the CSI team eventually whittles the list down to one legalese-savvy suspect (guest star Bokeem Woodbine) who elects to defend himself against the resulting charges. Yelina (Sofia Milos) is endangered while guarding a young witness to the crime.

Tuesday Best Bets

7 p.m. and USA
Movie: 12 Days of Christmas Eve
 "A Christmas Carol" meets "Groundhog Day" in this new drama starring Steven Weber

Steven Weber

("Wings," "The Shining"). He plays a business executive who's absorbed with himself and his work and has no time for any of that holiday-spirit nonsense. That changes when he suffers an accident and must relive Christmas Eve over and over until he learns his lesson. Molly Shannon and Patricia Velasquez also star.

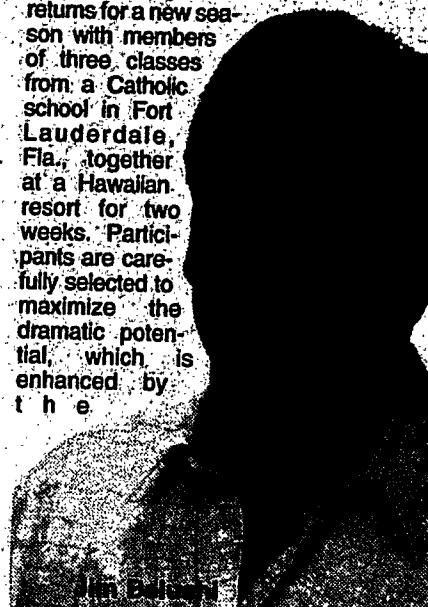

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

According to Jim

Jim (Jim Belushi) has been playing Hatfield-and-McCoy with a neighbor, and Cheryl (Courtney Thorne-Smith) urges him to call a halt to the feud so the family will be invited to the neighbor's Christmas party. She gets part of her wish, anyway; she and the kids are invited, but not Jim. Billi Bruno and Taylor Atelian also star. In "The Christmas Party."

8 p.m. on 38-WB
High School Reunion: Catholic School

The reality series returns for a new season with members of three classes from a Catholic school in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., together at a Hawaiian resort for two weeks. Participants are carefully selected to maximize the dramatic potential, which is enhanced by the arrival of some surprise guests, including, in this case, a group of former star athletes from a rival school.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

Veronica Mars

On Election Day in the United States, voting concerns also affect Veronica (Kristen Bell) and her school in "The Return of Kane." Duncan (Teddy Dunn) is elected student council president over a popular rival who vowed to make things more equitable between the "haves" and the "have-nots," prompting suspicion of fraud. Real-life spouses Harry Hamlin and Lisa Rinna guest star as Logan's (Jason Doherty) movie-star parents.

8 p.m. and DSC

Mummy Autopsy

The fictional detectives on CBS' "Cold Case" could take some lessons from the folks featured in this new series. They're forensics experts and anthropologists who examine mummified bodies with today's technology, yielding information not only about their deaths, but their lives and cultures. And although the series is premiering during the channel's "Egypt Week," it covers cases from all over, including the United States.

9 p.m. on BRAV

Queer Eye for the Straight Guy

The gang branches out — Christmas tree branches, that is — to work on not just one straight guy but a whole family that needs help to have a cool yule. No tacky tree, uninspired gift purchase or holiday cliché is safe as Carson, Ted, Thom, Kyan, and Jai work their makeover magic on the hapless household. Don't tune out early, or you'll miss the surprise ending of this new "Christmas Special" episode.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC Lost

A search party sets out for the jungle to find Charlie and Claire (Dominic Monaghan, Emilie de Ravin). Jack (Matthew Fox) battles some inner turmoil related to his father. Boone and Locke (Ian Somerhalder, Terry O'Quinn) make another mysterious discovery. Naveen Andrews, Maggie Grace and Evangeline Lilly also star in the new episode "All the Best Cowboys Have Daddy Issues."

7 p.m. on 38-WB Smallville

Clark (Tom Welling) is stunned to meet another apparent Krypton native (guest star Adrienne Palicki) who also has special powers in the two-hour "Covenant; Crusade." The newcomer prompts Jonathan (John Schneider) to fully disclose his connection to Jor-El. Clark's relationships with Lex and Lana (Michael Rosenbaum, Kristin Kreuk) undergo major transitions. Lex makes another strike against Lionel (John Glover).

7 p.m. on 6-NBC A Clay Aiken Christmas

As far as television exposure, second-season "American Idol" runner-up Clay Aiken is ahead of the man who beat him. Ruben Studdard had to share a Christmas special with the first- and third-season winners, but Aiken gets his own. Expect to hear songs from his just-released Christmas album and his holiday-themed "Joyful Noise" tour. Barry Manilow, Megan Mullally and gospel singer Yolanda Adams make appearances in the new special.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC Barbara Walters Presents the 10 Most Fascinating People of 2004

In what's become a December tradition right up there with sleigh

Wednesday Best Bets

Barbara Walters

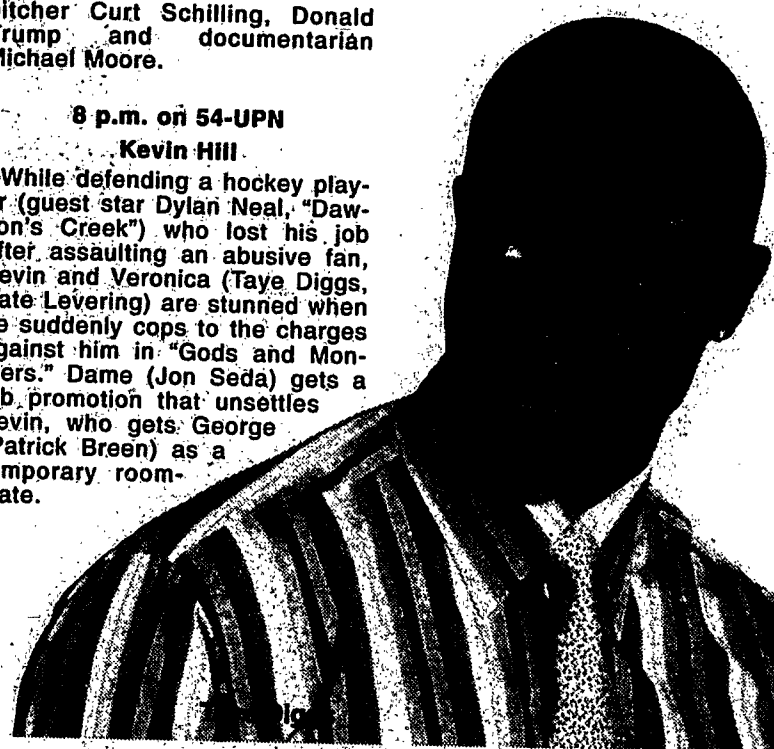

bells and Santa, veteran journalist Barbara Walters counts down the 'people' who made headlines over the past year. Famous faces you can expect to see include Oprah Winfrey, Boston Red Sox pitcher Curt Schilling, Donald Trump, and documentary Michael Moore.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

Kevin Hill

While defending a hockey player (guest star Dylan Neal, "Dawson's Creek") who lost his job after assaulting an abusive fan, Kevin and Veronica (Taye Diggs, Kate Levering) are stunned when he suddenly cops to the charges against him in "Gods and Monsters." Dame (Jon Seda) gets a job promotion that unsettles Kevin, who gets George (Patrick Breen) as a temporary roommate.

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX
The O.C.
 In the new episode "The Sn.O.C.," Julie and Jimmy (Melinda Clarke, Tate Donovan), chair the host committee for the annual winter ball, which gives them a chance to spend some time together. Of course, Seth, Ryan, Summer and Marissa (Adam Brody, Benjamin McKenzie, Rachel Blount, Mischa Barton) all attend the event. Sandy (Peter Gallagher) comes closer to learning Caleb's (Alan Dale) secret.

7 p.m. on 38-WB
Grandma Got Run Over by a Reindeer
 A familiar holiday tune — and one that's more off-color than most — is translated into an animated show as this special sets visuals to the Elmo and Patsy song. A youngster has his suspicions about why his grandmother is missing on Christmas Eve. His quest to find her involves his not-as-pure-minded cousin (voice of Michele Lee, "Knots Landing").

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX
North Shore
 Frankie (Jason Momoa) has a tough-love talk with Jason (Kristoffer Polaha), who is busy trying to keep his property out of the Regal Hawaiian's hands. Gabriel (Corey Sevier) enters his biggest competition blissfully unaware that Alexandra (Shannen Doherty) has put in a fix. Chris (Jay Kenneth Johnson) trains a boxer who gets the wrong idea about him in the new episode "Sucker Punch."

8 p.m. on 28-ABC on 13-ABC
Life as we know it
 Ms. Young (Marguerite Moreau) turns up the heat on Ben (Jon Foster), who's trying to deal with his newfound attraction to Sue (Jessica Lucas) in the new episode "With a Kiss, I Die." The pressure forces Ben to take a drastic step. Jackie (Missy Peregrym) takes one of her own with Matt (Joshua Close) as the news about Dino and Zoe (Sean Farris, Jessica Harmon) spreads.

8:59 p.m. on 6-NBC
ER
 In the ER, Christmas Eve is just another night — well, almost. A patient arrives in critical condition, and Abby (Maura Tierney) can't reach his doctor because he doesn't want to be bothered over the holiday. Carter and Wendall (Noah Wyle, Madchen Amick) share a Christmas kiss. Mekhi Phifer also stars in the new episode "Twas the Night."

How the Grinch Stole Christmas

Since its first airing in 1966, this adaptation of the Dr. Seuss children's book has evolved into an annual-holiday viewing tradition. Legendary animator Chuck Jones directed the story of the green grouch who sets out to spoil Christmas for the citizens of Whoville. Boris Karloff provides narration, with additional voices by Thurl Ravenscroft and June Foray.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

Star Trek: Enterprise

Echoes of previous "Star Trek" projects are incorporated into "Borderland," which launches a three-episode story arc. The creator (guest star Brent Spiner, "Star Trek: The Next Generation") of a genetically engineered race known as Augments aids the Enterprise crew in finding a renegade breed planning to prompt a war between Earth and the Klingons.

7 p.m. on HBO

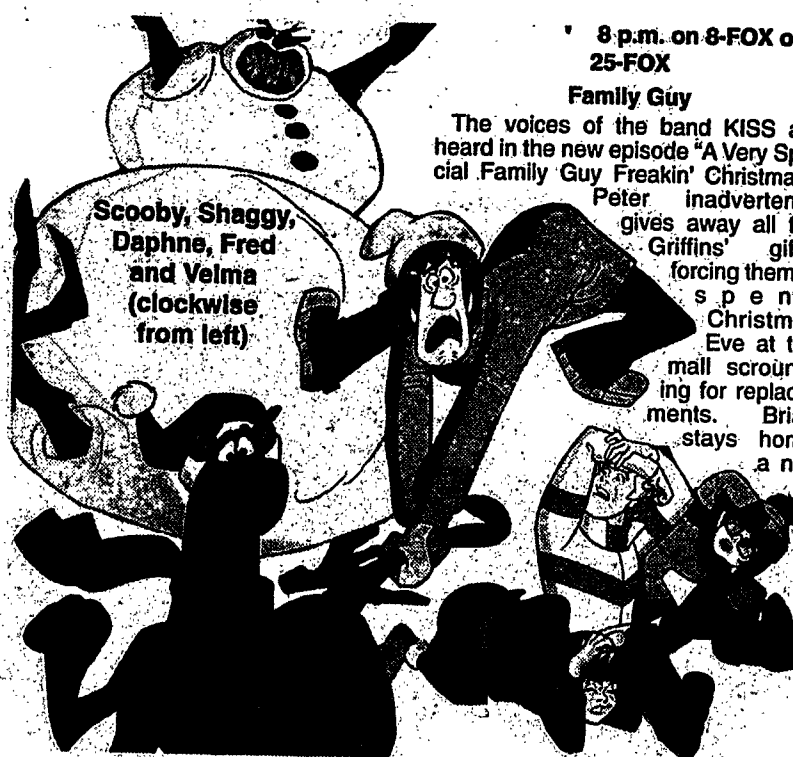

Reverse of the Curse of the Bambino

In the wake of the historic World Series win by the Boston Red Sox, HBO Sports revisits and revises the 2003 Emmy-winning documentary "The Curse of the Bambino" with this new film. It captures the delirium throughout New England after the Sox' dramatic pennant-winning comeback against the Yankees and then their sweep of the St. Louis Cardinals to win the Fall Classic for the first time in 86 years.

7:30 p.m. on 38-WB

A Scooby-Doo Christmas

Scooky-Doo, where are you? In this animated special, the mystery-solving canine is in a town named Winter Hollow. Scooby and his usual comrades — Shaggy, Freddy, Daphne and Velma — try to bring holiday spirit back to the town's residents. Legendary radio and TV personality Casey Kasem reprises his original voice role as Shaggy.

Family Guy

The voices of the band KISS are heard in the new episode "A Very Special Family Guy Freakin' Christmas." Peter inadvertently gives away all the Griffins' gifts, forcing them to spend Christmas Eve at the mall scrounging for replacements. Brian stays home and accidentally makes a mess, which pushes Lois over the edge.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Hope & Faith
Rebecca Budig guest stars as the actress who assumes Faith's (Kelly Ripa) former soap-opera role in "Silent Night, Opening Night." Hope (Faith Ford) tries to boost the depressed Faith by asking her to coach the young performers in Hayléy's (Macey Cruthird) school play. When Justin (Paulie Litt) is bullied, Charley (Ted McGinley) confronts the other boy's father (guest star Danny Woodburn).

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Reha

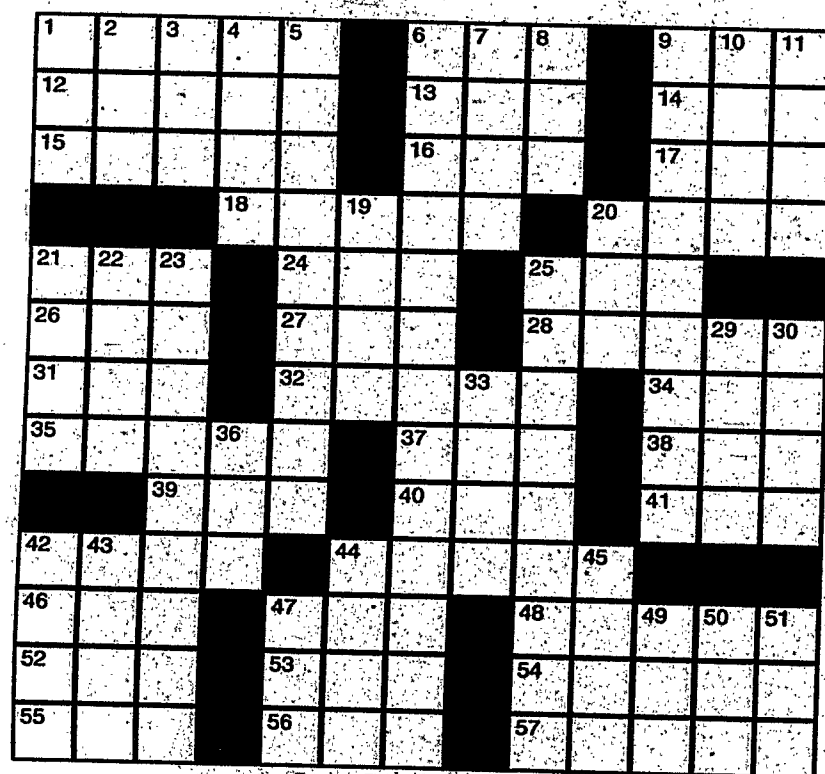

Van (Steve Howey) tries to get into the good graces of a gay sports agent (guest star Wendie Malick) by claiming Reba (Reba McEntire) also is gay in "Van's Agent." Unaware of the full situation, Reba invites the woman to dinner, then is urged by her relatives to maintain the ruse once everyone discovers what's up.

Sea Coast Echo

In Focus

Stevie Wonder has received many honors in the course of his long career, but the Motown legend will get an especially prestigious one - the Century Award, marking not only his longevity but the continuance of his work - during "The 2004 Billboard Music Awards" Wednesday, Dec. 8, on Fox.

Originating from the MGM Grand Garden Arena in Las Vegas, the show also celebrates artists who have hit the top of Billboard magazine's charts during the past year. Many of those stars perform on the two-hour show.

Joe Mantegna participated in the real-life wedding of Jean Smart, and the longtime friends play husband and wife in the new seasonal CBS movie "A Very Married Christmas" Sunday, Dec. 5.

The holiday may not be their happiest, though. The wife has a new love interest, prompting her mate to do all he can to keep their marriage afloat. He volunteers to be a mall Santa, which opens up the possibility of a new romance of his own. Charles Durning also stars.

Movie: Naughty or Nice

MOVIE: NAUGHTY or NICE
For the sake of a sick teenage fan, sports radio shock jock Henry Hamfiro (George Lopez) agrees to be nice on his show — for one day. When the stunt sets off good vibes all over town, he decides to keep being nice — to the chagrin of his bosses, who hired him to be nasty, and his family, who can't believe his new attitude is real. James Kirk, Lisa Vidal and John Salley ("The Best D a m n Sports Show Period") also star in this new drama movie.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS
Robbie the Robot

Robbie the Reindeer
In Hooves of Fire

First aired in the United States with its original voice cast, this British-produced special was revoiced a few years ago for American network television, with Ben Stiller as the voice of Robbie, son of Rudolph. He's trying out for a spot on Santa's sleigh team, but the unscrupulous Capt. Blitzen (voice of Hugh Grant) stands in his way. Other voices include Brinye Spears, James Belushi, and sportscasters Dick Enberg and Dan Dierdorf.

7:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

Robbie the Reindeer in Legend of the Lost Tribe

Robbie again faces off with his nemesis, Blitzen, who's planning to use the reindeer as theme-park attractions. This time, Robbie has the help of a recently discovered "lost tribe" of Vikings. Ben Stiller and Hugh Grant lead the voice cast of this clay-animation sequel to "Robbie the Reindeer in Hooves of Fire." Britney Spears and James Woods also supply voices.

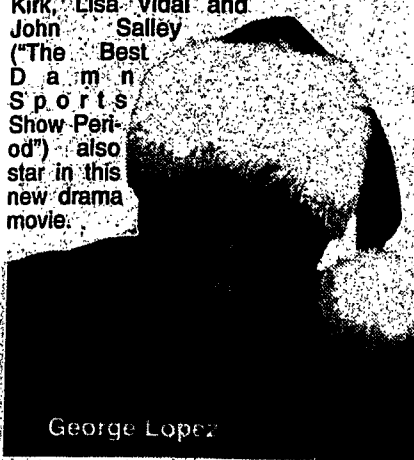

8 p.m. and HALL

Movie: Single Santa Seeks Mrs. Claus

Crystal Bernard ("Wings") stars in this romantic holiday tale as an advertising executive and single mom whose son asks Santa for a new dad. And guess who shows up in her life? None other than Santa's own son (Steve Guttenberg), who needs to find a Mrs. Claus in order to step into Dad's big black boots. Dominic Scott Kay and Thomas Calabro also star.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
Boyle: The Last Ride

Movie: The Last Ride
An ex-con hooks up with his grandson to commit a crime in this 2004 movie starring Dennis Hopper, Will Patton and Chris Carmack. When his wife is killed during a robbery, thief Ronnie Purnell (Hopper) turns himself in to the police. He gives his son, Aaron (Patton), a friend to raise. Thirty years later, Purnell is free and looking for revenge: Aaron now is a cop, so Purnell turns to grandson Matt (Carmack) for assistance.
